SOVIET BLAST DELAYS U. N. VOTE

U.N. Charter Obsolete, Dulles Tells Lawyers

Atomic Age Brings Need For Revision, Secretary Asserts

BOSTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The United Nations charter is "pre-atomic age" and needs important alterations, Secretary of State Dulles said today.

He told the General Assembly of the American Bar Association that "as one who was at San Francisco (where the charter was drafted and signed early in 1945) I can say with confidence that if the delegates there had known that the mysterious and immeasurable power of the atom would be available as a means of mass destruction, the provisions of the charter dealing with disarmament and the regulation of armaments would have been far more emphatic and realistic."

"Pre-Atomic Age Charter"

"The charter is thus a pre-atomic age charter," he said. "In this sense it was obsolete before it actually came into force."

Dulles said that "ignorance" of atomic power was one of the inadequacies of the charter.

Another, he said, "sprang from the fact that the three leaders who planned the United Nations were President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Stalin, the three who led the wartime victory coalition against Hitlerite Germany.

"Naturally and inevitably," he said, "they looked upon the United Nations as a kind of peace-time prolongation of the wartime triumvirate."

Order "Depends Upon Law"

That is why, he said, the proposals of the United States, the United Kingdom and Russia vested primary power in the Security Council "and stipulated that the great powers permanently represented on that council must always be in agreement."

The third inadequacy, he said, was "disregard of the fact that world order, in the long run, depends, not on men, but upon law. . . ."

Dulles said that "this administration has a vision of something better than bare survival in the face of danger," that he has already announced that the United States will vote in favor of holding a review conference of the U. N. charter when the question comes up before the General Assembly in 1955.

Planes Carrying 57 Brush Each Other, Land Safely

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 26 (AP)—Two airlines planes carrying a total of 51 passengers and six crew members brushed each other at 11,000 feet over Michigan City tonight.

The planes, twin-engined Convairs from American Air lines and United Air lines, landed safely. No one was injured. Both planes suffered minor damage.

The UAL plane had a 3-foot hole in the tail section and the American airliner was punctured on the top between the pilot's cabin and the passenger area.

France Opposed In Move To Block Morocco Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—France tried today to block U. N. debate on the French Moroccan situation, but Pakistan and Lebanon told the Security Council it should act at once to meet what they called a threat to peace.

The council's 3-hour session was devoted entirely to the speeches of these three countries on the procedural question as to whether or not the Moroccan question should be placed on the agenda.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., stood by ready to oppose U. N. discussion of the issue, but time ran out before he could get the floor. He will speak tomorrow afternoon.

Decision Due Next Week

No decision will be taken until next week; some delegates said they would not be ready to speak before Monday or Tuesday. Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky was one of those asking for more time. He said time would be required to study the question.

The Moroccan question was brought to the council by 15 Arab-Asian countries, including Pakistan and Lebanon, who are members of the council. The other 13 have requested formally that they be permitted to state their views before the council.

France Leads Off Debate

Leading off the debate, French Delegate Henri Hoppenot contended that the Moroccan problem was purely the concern of France and did not fall within the jurisdiction of the U. N. He added that, even if it was an international problem, there was no situation requiring action.

Pakistani Delegate Viqar Ahmed Hamdani said the Asian-Arab countries brought the complaint to the council because "the tendency of one country to ride roughshod over another is aggression."

Missing Girl Found Under Porch Of Home

WELLESLEY, Mass., Aug. 26 (AP)—A pretty 20-year-old Smith College senior—who vanished Monday after telling her mother she was going hiking—was found today semi-conscious but apparently uninjured under the porch of her home.

While searchers fanned out in a widespread search, Sylvia Plath was located by her brother and her grandmother who heard moaning coming from the cellar of their home.

Police Chief Robert McVey said an empty water jar and a container of eight sleeping tablets were found by the girl's side. He said the bottle had contained 48 sleeping tables when full.

Lunch Came First

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 26 (AP)—A hundred hungry stevedores held up the sailing of the U. S. liner America for New York for 35 minutes today while they finished their lunch.

Yanks Jailed By Reds Due To Be Freed

150 Americans Are Released On 23rd Day Of POW Trade

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Aug. 27 (AP)—Smiling but undemonstrative American and South Korean war prisoners came back from Communist imprisonment today, passing within a few feet of shouting North Korean soldiers returning voluntarily to the Reds.

The 23rd day of Operation Big Switch involved a total of 150 Americans, 250 South Korean and 2,400 North Korean repatriates.

The first two big deliveries of Americans were Army, Navy and Marine enlisted men and did not include the officers reportedly being sent back from Camp 2, near the Manchurian border.

Returned U. S. prisoners said yesterday the Reds were freeing some Americans who had been jailed on special charges and presumably would be withheld from repatriation until their sentences were completed.

Two U. S. officers exchanged yesterday said they had seen at nearby Kaesong about 10 men who had been sentenced to jail and "no repatriation" on trumped-up charges. Kaesong is where the Communists assemble prisoners for exchange.

One officer said the Reds announced they had "commuted" the sentences. He also estimated there now were at Kaesong 400 men from Camp 2, high up in North Korea. This camp for officers and airmen was barred to Allied Red Cross teams on their visit north last week.

Returning prisoners have said airmen were subjected to barbarous treatment, and much concern had been felt for Allied prisoners held in Camp 2. The Reds recently reported 470 Allied officers, 391 of them Americans, were held there.

These developments and a Peiping announcement that the Communists were increasing the number of prisoners they will exchange tended to allay somewhat the anxiety felt Wednesday over the fate of many prisoners.

A Peiping radio announcement said prisoners captured in the final days of the war were being added to repatriation lists. The number was not given, but some already have come back.

Death Defeats Peak Climbers

KARACHI, Pakistan, Aug. 26 (AP)—Death and injuries have foiled a 9-man American mountain-climbing expedition in its attempt to scale Mt. Godwin-Austen (K2), the world's highest unconquered peak.

Delayed reports from Kashmir today said Arthur K. Gilkes, a 26-year old New York geologist, gave his life in the attempt.

These advices gave this story:

Gilkey was killed when the party, roped together, fell more than 100 feet over a razor-edged ridge at a height of 25,000 feet. Others would have been killed, too, but for the last man on the rope. He was able to anchor the line by throwing his full weight against a ledge, enabling the others to be pulled to safety.

It was the sixth expedition to be defeated by Godwin-Austen, second highest summit in the world at 28,250 feet and tallest peak still unconquered. Everest, the highest at more than 29,000 feet, was conquered last May.

Picard Plunges 3,608 Feet Deep Into Mediterranean

ABOARD THE CORVETTE FENICE OFF CAPRI, Italy, Aug. 26 (AP) — Swiss scientist Auguste Piccard, one-time stratosphere balloonist, today plunged 3,608 feet deep into the Mediterranean in his steel bathyscafe.

The thin, grey haired professor and his son, Jacques, rode to the bottom in a bubble-like observation ball suspended underneath the rectangular bathyscafe. The contraption was lowered by cable from a tug about two miles off the tourist-jammed Isle of Capri.

Two earlier attempts during the day failed, and the bathyscafe was hauled to the surface after going down only short distances.

The sea was believed about 3,444 feet deep at the point where Piccard went down. The scientist said later, however, that the descent actually measured 3,608 feet.

The descent fell far short of beating the world record. Two Frenchmen, Naval Capt. Georges Houot and engineer Pierre Henri Willm, went down 6,888 feet off Toulon Aug. 14. However, it did better the 3,208-foot dive that American scientist Dr. William Beebe made in his bathysphere off Bermuda in 1934.

It took 20 minutes to lower the steel device to the bottom. It rested there about 15 minutes, then bobbed to the surface when heavy weights were removed.

Piccard and his son emerged with broad smiles while the crews and passengers of many boats in the area cheered. The bottom of the bathyscafe was covered with thick mud.

Piccard told newsmen aboard this Italian corvette he was satisfied his device would "be able to go down to any depths." He said he and his son probably would experiment in deeper water later this fall.

Vishinsky Raises Fist During "Master Race" Speech

Russia's Andrei Vishinsky raises his fist and looks over at U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., (left) as he accuses the U. S. and its allies of acting like a "master race." Referring to a 15-power resolution backed by Lodge, he accused the Allies of trying to ram through an ultimatum to the Reds on the makeup of the Korean peace conference. His bitter, angry speech came as the U.N. Political Committee continued debate on the conference question. Listening is Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb.

Living Costs Set Another Record; GM To Up Wages

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The nation's living costs, as measured by government experts, inched up about two-tenths of 1 per cent today to set a record for the second straight month.

Higher prices for food, rent, medical care, gasoline and motor oil were cited by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as the chief factors in the cost of living increase. The Bureau's index has been climbing steadily for five months.

Figures in the new government index gave about one million auto industry workers a 1-cent hourly pay boost. Their wages are hinged to the index for quarterly adjustments according to living cost changes.

GM Workers Get Pay Hike

In Detroit, General Motors Corp. announced that 390,000 hourly workers in its plants will get the penny increase in pay periods beginning Sept. 7. General Motors also said 100,000 salaried employes will get an additional $5 in their living cost allowance each quarter. This is approximately what the hourly workers will gain.

Living costs reached a peak last November, from which they declined during the winter and began rising again in the spring and early summer. They edged up to a new high in mid-June.

The mid-June index figure was 114.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Today's index, reflecting mid-July prices and establishing another record, was 114.7.

Living Costs Fairly Steady

This was only one-tenth of an index point below what would have given the million auto industry workers a 2-cent increase instead of only one cent.

Actually, living costs have remained fairly steady for a year, fluctuating seasonally and in a narrow range. Today's record level is only one half of 1 per cent above a year ago.

This is 12½ per cent higher than before the Korean war, however. Wages have increased in the same period. Another government index shows that average hourly earnings of factory workers rose 21 per cent since the Korean War started, now being $1.77 cents an hour.

Riviera Jewel Thieves Make $300,000 Haul

ST. TROPEZ, France, Aug. 26 (AP)—Gunmen invaded the bedroom of a near-sighted women hotel keeper early today and got away with $300,000 in jewels and cash belonging to patrons in this Riviera resort, police reported.

It was the first big haul reported this summer on France's glamor coast where jewel robberies are a traditional hazard for wealthy vacationers. Among the victims in recent years were the Aga Khan and his Begum.

The chief victim today was Mrs. Hayat Volterra who owned all but $15,000 of the stolen valuables.

Charges Dismissed

COSTA MESA, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—Assault charges against Adolph Spreckels II, 11-year-old heir to sugar millions, were dismissed today because his ex-wife, Kay Williams, was in a hospital and the prosecution said she was too ill to testify against him.

Possibility Of General Phone Walkout Eases

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Talks continued today in search of what a union spokesman called a "peaceful, just" settlement of a labor dispute affecting the nation's long distance telephone lines, and no strike appeared imminent.

John Lotz, president of the big New York City local of the CIO Communications Workers of America, said an immediate walkout of his unit was "hardly likely."

Earlier he had reported a "very definite threat of a walkout," though he said the union had made no specific plans for one.

The New York local has about one-third of the 22,000 members of the union.

Anthony Seghy, acting director of the union's bargaining unit, declined to talk with newsmen after today's negotiations. He told reporters to "talk to Jake Adams in Chicago," when asked about the possibility of a strike and negotiation developments.

Adams was understood here to be the union's new long lines bargaining chief.

As the talks on the new national wage contract have been going on, there have been scattered walkouts by long lines workers.

Lotz earlier had said the union members "are impatient with the stalling tactics of the management, and I don't know if we can hold them."

The company said there was no stalling.

Wage and other issues in the labor dispute have not been disclosed. The negotiations are to replace a contract which expired July 5.

Thousands of other telephone workers have walked out in Maryland, Indiana and the Southwest in disputes unconnected with the negotiations here.

About 300 of the 8,100 CWA members struck in 21 Maryland offices of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co.

Union leaders called it a show of strength and said the strikers would return to work tonight. The company called off a scheduled contract bargaining session in the face of "this wildcat action."

Labor Union Upheld

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ruled 3-2 today that a union representation election was valid despite the union's use of a sound truck within earshot of the polling place.

Business Teacher Resigns To Drive Brewery Truck

SUMMIT, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP)—Arthur Kull won't be teaching business at Summit High School this fall.

He resigned his $85-a-week job last night to accept another at $137.50 weekly.

Hypnotist's Spell Reported Lifting

BANFF, Alberta, Aug. 26 (AP)—The spell cast over pretty, 19-year-old Betty Black by a traveling hypnotist here last Saturday night was reported lifting in Banff Springs Hospital today.

Hospital authorities said her condition was generally improved and that she was eating again. They didn't say whether long-distance instructions from the hypnotist had anything to do with snapping her out of it.

He snapped their trances at the end of the show, but Betty fell asleep three times at work Sunday and was taken to a hospital with what doctors called "a consuming desire to sleep." She refused to eat. Yesterday she said she remembered nothing of the hypnotic show.

The mounted police took the case as a bona fide one and put on a nationwide hunt for Zomb to ask his advice. He was found at Wainwright, 135 miles away. Police said he relayed instructions to Banff doctors on how to end the trance, and that the case is closed.

Army Sets 60,000 Junior ROTC Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Army today set a ceiling of 60,000 students for the junior reserve officers training program this year.

Support of more than this number cannot be provided under current economy programs, the Army said. It added that no individual school is expected to suffer greatly from the reduction.

The Army said the new ceiling is approximately 90 per cent of the number enrolled in the junior ROTC at the beginning of the last school year.

Atom Plant Picketed

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 26 (AP)—AFL pipefitters tonight joined 1,200 to 1,500 carpenters in maintaining a picket line at the billion-dollar atomic energy plant near here.

Blonde Admits She Slew Sister Of Ex-Boy Friend

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — A petite blonde stenographer, who said her boy friend jilted her and married another girl, heads back to Massachusetts tonight as the admitted fury slayer of his 14-year-old sister.

Mildred McDonald, 25, of Somerville, Mass., weepingly told police she shot, slashed and burned Mary Di Rocco in the Di Rocco Somerville home Monday in a fit of rage after the child babbled that brother Joseph was happy with his wife.

Then the blonde sobbingly waived extradition to go back and face a murder charge in the bizarre slaying.

Went Together Two Years

Police said Miss McDonald went with Joseph for two years, prior to his marriage last April, and that she told them:

"I thought we were going to get married. Then he brushed me off. That hurt me. That's what I had against Joe . . .

But as to why she took out her brooding, pent up anger on the little sister, the police said, she kept saying she didn't know.

"She was so young," Miss McDonald was quoted. "I had nothing against her. Everything reeled around me. I was just plain crazy."

She told police she fled to New York later Monday by bus, took a room at the Statler Hotel, then moved to a YWCA while police searched the Eastern Seaboard for her.

Spotted By Patrolman

An eagle-eyed patrolman, George F. Grace, spotted her walking last night near Times Square.

He said he recognized her from an Associated Press Wirephoto of her that he had seen in the New York Daily News a few moments before. His attention was attracted also by her "dazed look," he said.

Through the night, she denied any connection with the gun, knife and fire attack, but at about 6 a.m. she related the story and signed a written statement admitting the slaying, police said.

Police said they found in her YWCA room a .22 caliber pistol, six used cartridges, some unused cartridges and a knife.

Brothers Swap Blows Atop Dunked Auto, Land In Court

MADISON, Ind., Aug. 26 (AP)—Two middle-aged brothers, both painters, were haled into court today to explain how they happened to be trading haymakers atop a car partly submerged in the Ohio River.

It all started when the car of James and John Barnes somehow missed the Ohio River bridge at Madison and waded into the water above its radiator.

Indiana's jurisdiction ends with its own shoreline, so the brothers were legally in Kentucky. Madison and Jefferson County police had no jurisdiction over them, but they tried to coax them ashore.

The driver, James, was willing; but John put up an argument. They started swinging. The battle ranged from the top of the car to the hood to the river.

They traded blows for half an hour.

Sheriff Walter Sauley laughed so hard he had to lie down on the riverbank.

Then James let loose an underwater poke that took the fight out of John, and the reluctant brother was dragged ashore.

John admitted to City Judge Harold E. Ford that he had been drinking before the fording incident started and was fined $38 for public intoxication.

But James denied a charge that he had been drinking when he drove into the water. He pleaded innocent to the pre-dunk drunken driving charge, explaining:

"I was so disgusted when we landed in the river that I just drank a pint of whisky."

U. S. Acts Like 'Master Race,' Vishinsky Says

Charges Allies Try To Shove Through Ultimatum To Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP) —Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky accused the United States and its allies today of acting like a "master race" and trying to ram through an ultimatum to the Communists on the makeup of the Korean peace conference.

He also maneuvered to force the U. N. Assembly to make a decision on whether Russia would attend as an interested neighbor, which he insisted she is, or as a member of the Communist side tagged as a part of the Red aggressor team.

Vishinsky unleashed a bitter and angry speech in the 60-nation Political Committee of the Assembly. Some delegates saw it as a warning that the Korean peace conference, if it is ever held, is doomed to fail before it starts unless the conditions laid down by Red China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai in Peiping and the Soviet delegation here are accepted.

U. S. Is Confident

Red China wants a conference made up as Vishinsky suggested. He proposed 15 countries, nine of which were neutral or professedly neutral in the Korean War.

The United States confidently expects to obtain passage tomorrow of a resolution limiting participation in the conference to the U. N. members who sent troops to Korea, plus Red China, the North Koreans, and the Russians, if the Asian Reds want them.

Vishinsky, raising his voice and waving his arms, said the tendency of the "pro-American group" was "not to talk to the other side." He said there is no justification for a "take it or leave it attitude."

He said Chou En-lai had supported the Soviet proposal and this made clear by "pushing through your proposal as an ultimatum to the other side you are actually already wrecking the conference . . . you are already rudely slamming the door."

Tirade Delays Voting

"You are not dealing with vanquished peoples," he rushed on. "There has been no unconditional surrender. You did not win. You did not break the iron will of North Korea. North Korea stands today where it stood in 1950."

Vishinsky spoke up just as the committee chairman, Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil, was calling for a vote on amendments moved today by the Russian delegate in an attempt to get a verdict first on his proposal for a 15-nation conference. The committee began debate Aug. 18 and 39 members plus South Korea have spoken.

Vishinsky said he did not know the debate had been closed. When he finished, Muniz observed that he would have to give the opportunity to others to answer Vishinsky. The committee will meet tomorrow at 9:30 a.m., EST, and a final vote may come then. The issue then will go to the full Assembly, perhaps Friday.

Ike Plans 6 Days Of Trout Fishing

DENVER, Aug. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower travels into the Colorado Rockies tomorrow for at least six days of trout fishing near Fraser on the western slope of the Continental Divide.

The President will be the guest of an old friend Aksel Nielsen at the Denver businessman's ranch about 70 miles northwest of here. Swift-running St. Louis Creek, an Eisenhower favorite, flows just a few hundred yards from the ranch.

Since he arrived Aug. 8 the President has been dividing his time between work and play. He has transacted business almost every week-day morning at his Lowry Air Force Base office, and either golfed or fished nearby in the afternoon.

At Fraser there will be virtually no business, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen. He said the only break in the President's strictly vacation routine may be a visit with the National Security Council, to report on council affairs.

Planes Carrying 57 Brush Each Other, Land Safely

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 26 (AP)—Two airlines planes carrying a total of 51 passengers and six crew members brushed each other at 11,000 feet over Michigan City tonight.

The planes, twin-engined Convairs from American Air lines and United Air lines, landed safely. No one was injured. Both planes suffered minor damage.

The UAL plane had a 3-foot hole in the tail section and the American airliner was punctured on the top between the pilot's cabin and the passenger area.

France Opposed In Move To Block Morocco Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—France tried today to block U. N. debate on the French Moroccan situation, but Pakistan and Lebanon told the Security Council it should act at once to meet what they called a threat to peace.

The council's 3-hour session was devoted entirely to the speeches of these three countries on the procedural question as to whether or not the Moroccan question should be placed on the agenda.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., stood by ready to oppose U. N. discussion of the issue, but time ran out before he could get the floor. He will speak tomorrow afternoon.

Decision Due Next Week

No decision will be taken until next week; some delegates said they would not be ready to speak before Monday or Tuesday. Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky was one of those asking for more time. He said time would be required to study the question.

The Moroccan question was brought to the council by 15 Arab-Asian countries, including Pakistan and Lebanon, who are members of the council. The other 13 have requested formally that they be permitted to state their views before the council.

France Leads Off Debate

Leading off the debate, French Delegate Henri Hoppenot contended that the Moroccan problem was purely the concern of France and did not fall within the jurisdiction of the U. N. He added that, even if it was an international problem, there was no situation requiring action.

Pakistani Delegate Viqar Ahmed Hamdani said the Asian-Arab countries brought the complaint to the council because "the tendency of one country to ride roughshod over another is aggression."

Missing Girl Found Under Porch Of Home

WELLESLEY, Mass., Aug. 26 (AP)—A pretty 20-year-old Smith College senior—who vanished Monday after telling her mother she was going hiking—was found today semi-conscious but apparently uninjured under the porch of her home.

While searchers fanned out in a widespread search, Sylvia Plath was located by her brother and her grandmother who heard moaning coming from the cellar of their home.

Police Chief Robert McVey said an empty water jar and a container of eight sleeping tablets were found by the girl's side. He said the bottle had contained 48 sleeping tables when full.

Lunch Came First

Death Defeats Peak Climbers

KARACHI, Pakistan, Aug. 26 (AP)—Death and injuries have foiled a 9-man American mountain-climbing expedition in its attempt to scale Mt. Godwin-Austen (K2), the world's highest unconquered peak.

Delayed reports from Kashmir today said Arthur K. Gilkes, a 26-year old New York geologist, gave his life in the attempt.

These advices gave this story:

Gilkey was killed when the party, roped together, fell more than 100 feet over a razor-edged ridge at a height of 25,000 feet. Others would have been killed, too, but for the last man on the rope. He was able to anchor the line by throwing his full weight against a ledge, enabling the others to be pulled to safety.

It was the sixth expedition to be defeated by Godwin-Austen, second highest summit in the world at 28,250 feet and tallest peak still unconquered. Everest, the highest at more than 29,000 feet, was conquered last May.

Picard Plunges 3,608 Feet Deep Into Mediterranean

ABOARD THE CORVETTE FENICE OFF CAPRI, Italy, Aug. 26 (AP) — Swiss scientist Auguste Piccard, one-time stratosphere balloonist, today plunged 3,608 feet deep into the Mediterranean in his steel bathyscafe.

The thin, grey haired professor and his son, Jacques, rode to the bottom in a bubble-like observation ball suspended underneath the rectangular bathyscafe. The contraption was lowered by cable from a tug about two miles off the tourist-jammed Isle of Capri.

Two earlier attempts during the day failed, and the bathyscafe was hauled to the surface after going down only short distances.

The sea was believed about 3,444 feet deep at the point where Piccard went down. The scientist said later, however, that the descent actually measured 3,608 feet.

The descent fell far short of beating the world record. Two Frenchmen, Naval Capt. Georges Houot and engineer Pierre Henri Willm, went down 6,888 feet off Toulon Aug. 14. However, it did better the 3,208-foot dive that American scientist Dr. William Beebe made in his bathysphere off Bermuda in 1934.

It took 20 minutes to lower the steel device to the bottom. It rested there about 15 minutes, then bobbed to the surface when heavy weights were removed.

Piccard and his son emerged with broad smiles while the crews and passengers of many boats in the area cheered. The bottom of the bathyscafe was covered with thick mud.

Piccard told newsmen aboard this Italian corvette he was satisfied his device would "be able to go down to any depths." He said he and his son probably would experiment in deeper water later this fall.

Living Costs Set Another Record; GM To Up Wages

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The nation's living costs, as measured by government experts, inched up about two-tenths of 1 per cent today to set a record for the second straight month.

Higher prices for food, rent, medical care, gasoline and motor oil were cited by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as the chief factors in the cost of living increase. The Bureau's index has been climbing steadily for five months.

Figures in the new government index gave about one million auto industry workers a 1-cent hourly pay boost. Their wages are hinged to the index for quarterly adjustments according to living cost changes.

GM Workers Get Pay Hike

In Detroit, General Motors Corp. announced that 390,000 hourly workers in its plants will get the penny increase in pay periods beginning Sept. 7. General Motors also said 100,000 salaried employes will get an additional $5 in their living cost allowance each quarter. This is approximately what the hourly workers will gain.

Living costs reached a peak last November, from which they declined during the winter and began rising again in the spring and early summer. They edged up to a new high in mid-June.

The mid-June index figure was 114.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Today's index, reflecting mid-July prices and establishing another record, was 114.7.

Living Costs Fairly Steady

This was only one-tenth of an index point below what would have given the million auto industry workers a 2-cent increase instead of only one cent.

Actually, living costs have remained fairly steady for a year, fluctuating seasonally and in a narrow range. Today's record level is only one half of 1 per cent above a year ago.

This is 12½ per cent higher than before the Korean war, however. Wages have increased in the same period. Another government index shows that average hourly earnings of factory workers rose 21 per cent since the Korean War started, now being $1.77 cents an hour.

Riviera Jewel Thieves Make $300,000 Haul

ST. TROPEZ, France, Aug. 26 (AP)—Gunmen invaded the bedroom of a near-sighted women hotel keeper early today and got away with $300,000 in jewels and cash belonging to patrons in this Riviera resort, police reported.

It was the first big haul reported this summer on France's glamor coast where jewel robberies are a traditional hazard for wealthy vacationers. Among the victims in recent years were the Aga Khan and his Begum.

The chief victim today was Mrs. Hayat Volterra who owned all but $15,000 of the stolen valuables.

Charges Dismissed

COSTA MESA, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—Assault charges against Adolph Spreckels II, 41-year-old heir to sugar millions, were dismissed today because his ex-wife, Kay Williams, was in a hospital and the prosecution said she was too ill to testify against him.

Possibility Of General Phone Walkout Eases

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Talks continued today in search of what a union spokesman called a "peaceful, just" settlement of a labor dispute affecting the nation's long distance telephone lines, and no strike appeared imminent.

John Lotz, president of the big New York City local of the CIO Communications Workers of America, said an immediate walkout of his unit was "hardly likely."

Earlier he had reported a "very definite threat of a walkout," though he said the union had made no specific plans for one.

The New York local has about one-third of the 22,000 members of the union.

Anthony Seghy, acting director of the union's bargaining unit, declined to talk with newsmen after today's negotiations. He told reporters to "talk to Jake Adams in Chicago," when asked about the possibility of a strike and negotiation developments.

Adams was understood here to be the union's new long lines bargaining chief.

As the talks on the new national wage contract have been going on, there have been scattered walkouts by long lines workers.

Lotz earlier had said the union members "are impatient with the stalling tactics of the management, and I don't know if we can hold them."

The company said there was no stalling.

Wage and other issues in the labor dispute have not been disclosed. The negotiations are to replace a contract which expired July 5.

Thousands of other telephone workers have walked out in Maryland, Indiana and the Southwest in disputes unconnected with the negotiations here.

About 300 of the 8,100 CWA members struck in 21 Maryland offices of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co.

Union leaders called it a show of strength and said the strikers would return to work tonight. The company called off a scheduled contract bargaining session in the face of "this wildcat action."

Business Teacher Resigns To Drive Brewery Truck

SUMMIT, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP)—Arthur Kull won't be teaching business at Summit High School this fall.

He resigned his $85-a-week job last night to accept another at $137.50 weekly.

Hypnotist's Spell Reported Lifting

BANFF, Alberta, Aug. 26 (AP)—The spell cast over pretty, 19-year-old Betty Black by a traveling hypnotist here last Saturday night was reported lifting in Banff Springs Hospital today.

Hospital authorities said her condition was generally improved and that she was eating again. They didn't say whether long-distance instructions from the hypnotist had anything to do with snapping her out of it.

He snapped their trances at the end of the show, but Betty fell asleep three times at work Sunday and was taken to a hospital with what doctors called "a consuming desire to sleep." She refused to eat. Yesterday she said she remembered nothing of the hypnotic show.

The mounted police took the case as a bona fide one and put on a nationwide hunt for Zomb to ask his advice. He was found at Wainwright, 135 miles away. Police said he relayed instructions to Banff doctors on how to end the trance, and that the case is closed.

Army Sets 60,000 Junior ROTC Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Army today set a ceiling of 60,000 students for the junior reserve officers training program this year.

Support of more than this number cannot be provided under current economy programs, the Army said. It added that no individual school is expected to suffer greatly from the reduction.

The Army said the new ceiling is approximately 90 per cent of the number enrolled in the junior ROTC at the beginning of the last school year.

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 26 (AP)—AFL pipefitters tonight joined 1,200 to 1,500 carpenters in maintaining a picket line at the billion-dollar atomic energy plant near here.

Blonde Admits She Slew Sister Of Ex-Boy Friend

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — A petite blonde stenographer, who said her boy friend jilted her and married another girl, heads back to Massachusetts tonight as the admitted fury slayer of his 14-year-old sister.

Mildred McDonald, 25, of Somerville, Mass., weepingly told police she shot, slashed and burned Mary Di Rocco in the Di Rocco Somerville home Monday in a fit of rage after the child babbled that brother Joseph was happy with his wife.

Then the blonde sobbingly waived extradition to go back and face a murder charge in the bizarre slaying.

Went Together Two Years

Police said Miss McDonald went with Joseph for two years, prior to his marriage last April, and that she told them:

"I thought we were going to get married. Then he brushed me off. That hurt me. That's what I had against Joe . . .

But as to why she took out her brooding, pent up anger on the little sister, the police said, she kept saying she didn't know.

"She was so young," Miss McDonald was quoted. "I had nothing against her. Everything reeled around me. I was just plain crazy."

She told police she fled to New York later Monday by bus, took a room at the Statler Hotel, then moved to a YWCA while police searched the Eastern Seaboard for her.

Spotted By Patrolman

An eagle-eyed patrolman, George F. Grace, spotted her walking last night near Times Square.

He said he recognized her from an Associated Press Wirephoto of her that he had seen in the New York Daily News a few moments before. His attention was attracted also by her "dazed look," he said.

Through the night, she denied any connection with the gun, knife and fire attack, but at about 6 a.m. she related the story and signed a written statement admitting the slaying, police said.

Police said they found in her YWCA room a .22 caliber pistol, six used cartridges, some unused cartridges and a knife.

Labor Union Upheld

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ruled 3-2 today that a union representation election was valid despite the union's use of a sound truck within earshot of the polling place.

Brothers Swap Blows Atop Dunked Auto, Land In Court

MADISON, Ind., Aug. 26 (AP)—Two middle-aged brothers, both painters, were haled into court today to explain how they happened to be trading haymakers atop a car partly submerged in the Ohio River.

It all started when the car of James and John Barnes somehow missed the Ohio River bridge at Madison and waded into the water above its radiator.

Indiana's jurisdiction ends with its own shoreline, so the brothers were legally in Kentucky. Madison and Jefferson County police had no jurisdiction over them, but they tried to coax them ashore.

The driver, James, was willing; but John put up an argument. They started swinging. The battle ranged from the top of the car to the hood to the river.

They traded blows for half an hour.

Sheriff Walter Sauley laughed so hard he had to lie down on the riverbank.

Then James let loose an underwater poke that took the fight out of John, and the reluctant brother was dragged ashore.

John admitted to City Judge Harold E. Ford that he had been drinking before the fording incident started and was fined $38 for public intoxication.

But James denied a charge that he had been drinking when he drove into the water. He pleaded innocent to the pre-dunk drunken driving charge, explaining:

"I was so disgusted when we landed in the river that I just drank a pint of whisky."

Ike Plans 6 Days Of Trout Fishing

DENVER, Aug. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower travels into the Colorado Rockies tomorrow for at least six days of trout fishing near Fraser on the western slope of the Continental Divide.

The President will be the guest of an old friend Aksel Nielsen at the Denver businessman's ranch about 70 miles northwest of here. Swift-running St. Louis Creek, an Eisenhower favorite, flows just a few hundred yards from the ranch.

Since he arrived Aug. 8 the President has been dividing his time between work and play. He has transacted business almost every week-day morning at his Lowry Air Force Base office, and either golfed or fished nearby in the afternoon.

At Fraser there will be virtually no business, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen. He said the only break in the President's strictly vacation routine may be a visit with the National Security Council, to report on council affairs.

Radford Says U.S. Must Review Its Defense In View Of Soviet H-Blast

Expects Only Few Radical Changes In Basic Policy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, new Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today the United States must take another look at its defenses in the light of Russia's recent explosion of a hydrogen device.

There must be a careful review of American plans for countering all such new and devastating weapons, Radford told reporters at the first news conference he has held since taking his top strategy post earlier this month. He did not go into details.

But he said this country's military leaders anticipated the Soviets would eventually reach the hydrogen stage in their super-bomb research, and that such a development already has a place in American strategic planning.

Radford's remarks, taken as a whole, indicated that few if any radical changes would be made in defense policy. He left the impression that any changes would be made gradually over the long haul of the defense program.

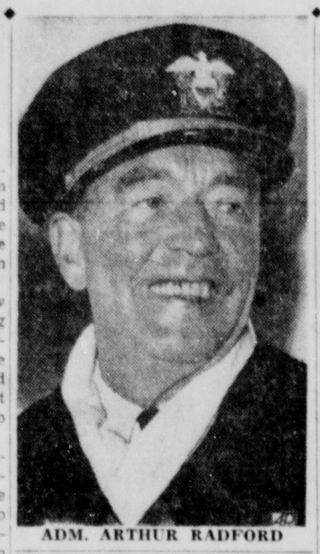

In this connection the Admiral appeared to disagree with his predecessor, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who expressed the opinion in a current magazine article that new weapons have become so important that they are beginning to shake the present division of functions among the armed forces.

Radford said flatly on this point that whereas new weapons have made rapid progress in the recent years he did not expect them to result in any major change in the missions or operations of military forces for perhaps five or six years more.

He also made it plain that the comprehensive review of U. S. strategic needs and capabilities will continue indefinitely, and that the new chiefs of staff will not be satisfied with merely producing a report to be acted upon or filed away for future reference.

He added, however, that the new chiefs would make enough progress in their review by this fall to enable the Defense Department to put a new military budget before congress in January.

The Admiral, who was one of the Navy's leaders in the bitter controversy with the Air Force several years ago over the B36 bomber and the importance of strategic bombing, told the news conference he did not intend to advocate changing the missions of the armed services as now mapped out.

He Wasn't Turning The Other Cheek

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26 (AP)—Panhandlers and drunks have a healthy respect for patrolman Tony Novak.

The former national amateur heavyweight champion has acquired a reputation of keeping them off Minnesota Avenue.

Today as he left the police station to go home, his car stalled. A man he had arrested 12 times came up voluntarily and helped him get the motor started.

"That's turning the other cheek, pal," said Novak by way of thanks.

"Turning the other cheek, hell," the volunteer replied. "I'm just trying to get you away from here."

U. S. Says Soviets Use POWs For Blackmail

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — The Voice of America charged today in its overseas broadcasts that the Soviet Union is using war prisoners for political blackmail to gain concessions from their homelands.

The Voice, an arm of the State Department, said the Russians persistently refused to return or account for more than three million prisoners—many of them Germans captured in World War II.

"One motive is blackmail," said the broadcasts to Iron Curtain and other countries. "The Soviet regime hopes to barter the lives of prisoners of war in return for political and economic concessions.

"An example of this inhuman practice was seen in the vague agreement between Malenkov (Soviet premier) and Grotewohl (Otto Grotewohl, East German Premier) to 'take certain measures to release German war prisoners.'

"Malenkov was saying, in effect, 'If you want your surviving young men back, you had better stop asking for food, freedom and a united Germany.'"

Easing Of Atomic Secrecy Opposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Rep. Patterson (R-Conn) contended today that current proposals to publish more atomic information would be a boon to the Kremlin's spies.

Patterson, who is chairman of the security subcommittee of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said that at present there is no "essential leakage" of U. S. atomic secrets because the "FBI has driven the Soviet spies out of the atomic program."

But he added that proposals by "some of our most sincere people" to make more information available to the public might mean doing "the work of the Soviet spies for them."

Patterson issued a statement and held a news conference on atomic subjects.

Asked what information should be publicized, he replied:

"The public should know that a moderate hydrogen device such as we have will cover an area of 100 to 200 square miles."

White House Silent

DENVER, Aug. 26 (AP)—The summer White House today declined comment on whether British Prime Minister Churchill has been in touch with President Eisenhower regarding foreign policy differences between Britain and the United States.

Strike Looms At Firestone

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26 (AP)—Seeking to avert a walkout at midnight tonight, negotiators for Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and the CIO United Rubber Workers went into continuous sessions over the union's wage demands.

The union served notice 60 days ago its contract would be canceled at midnight tonight if no agreement is reached.

The company employs about 24,000 production workers in eight cities. The largest plant, in Akron, Ohio, employs 10,000.

The outcome of the Firestone negotiations was expected in both industry and union circles to be an important factor in similar negotiations with other major producers.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. is negotiating with the union here, with Sept. 8 as the possible cancelation date. Wage talks with B.F. Goodrich Co. are being held in Chicago, with a possible cancelation date of next Monday. The U. S. Rubber Co. and the union opened negotiations last week in Cincinnati.

Second A-Sub's Keel Will Be Laid Sept. 15

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Navy announced today that the keel laying of its second nuclear-powered submarine will take place at noon Sept. 15 instead of Sept. 1, as previously reported.

It said the two weeks delay was arranged for the convenience of those who will attend the ceremony at the Groton, Conn., yards of the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp. Navy Secretary Anderson will preside.

The new ship has been given the name Sea Wolf. The first atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus, is also being built by the Electric Boat Co. and is scheduled to take the water sometime next year.

Easing Of Atomic Secrecy Opposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Rep. Patterson (R-Conn) contended today that current proposals to publish more atomic information would be a boon to the Kremlin's spies.

Patterson, who is chairman of the security subcommittee of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said that at present there is no "essential leakage" of U. S. atomic secrets because the "FBI has driven the Soviet spies out of the atomic program."

But he added that proposals by "some of our most sincere people" to make more information available to the public might mean doing "the work of the Soviet spies for them."

Patterson issued a statement and held a news conference on atomic subjects.

Asked what information should be publicized, he replied:

"The public should know that a moderate hydrogen device such as we have will cover an area of 100 to 200 square miles."

DENVER, Aug. 26 (AP)—The summer White House today declined comment on whether British Prime Minister Churchill has been in touch with President Eisenhower regarding foreign policy differences between Britain and the United States.

Strike Looms At Firestone

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26 (AP)—Seeking to avert a walkout at midnight tonight, negotiators for Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and the CIO United Rubber Workers went into continuous sessions over the union's wage demands.

The union served notice 60 days ago its contract would be canceled at midnight tonight if no agreement is reached.

The company employs about 24,000 production workers in eight cities. The largest plant, in Akron, Ohio, employs 10,000.

The outcome of the Firestone negotiations was expected in both industry and union circles to be an important factor in similar negotiations with other major producers.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. is negotiating with the union here, with Sept. 8 as the possible cancelation date. Wage talks with B.F. Goodrich Co. are being held in Chicago, with a possible cancelation date of next Monday. The U. S. Rubber Co. and the union opened negotiations last week in Cincinnati.

Second A-Sub's Keel Will Be Laid Sept. 15

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Navy announced today that the keel laying of its second nuclear-powered submarine will take place at noon Sept. 15 instead of Sept. 1, as previously reported.

It said the two weeks delay was arranged for the convenience of those who will attend the ceremony at the Groton, Conn., yards of the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp. Navy Secretary Anderson will preside.

The new ship has been given the name Sea Wolf. The first atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus, is also being built by the Electric Boat Co. and is scheduled to take the water sometime next year.

The average American speaks about 5,000 words a day.

Carpenters Union-AFL Peace Moves Reported

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Peace moves already are under way, it was learned tonight, to get the rebellious carpenters union back into the AFL—perhaps before the AFL's annual convention beginning Sept. 21.

The moves apparently were initiated by William (Big Bill) Hutcheson, 69-year old president emeritus of the 822,000-member carpenters union. The carpenters quit the AFL only two weeks ago in a policy row.

Hutcheson already has conferred with George Meany, AFL president, an informed source disclosed.

Red's Slayer Gets Life

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP)—A Soviet zone court has sentenced to life imprisonment an East German businessman convicted of shooting a Communist official to death, the Communist press said today.

The sentence was passed at Halle. The defendant was charged with killing a Red official who was examining the businessman's accounting books.

Md. Republicans Plan Armistice Day Dinner

Knowland Will Be Principal Speaker

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26 (AP)—Maryland Republicans will hold their first important state-wide meeting since their 1952 election victory in a $50-per-plate dinner here next Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

The principal speaker will be Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) who succeeded the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) as majority leader of the Senate.

The dinner will be held at the Emerson Hotel.

Purpose of the dinner is to lay plans to retain the gains of 1952 when Republicans swept the state for President Eisenhower, elected a second U. S. Senator and for the first time since 1920 came out of an election with a majority in Congress. Before the votes were cast, Democrats and Republicans had a 3-3 split in the lower house. Maryland voters changed the ration to 4-3 in favor of the Republicans as one seat was added.

Party leaders say the aim for next year is to retain these gains, re-elect Gov. McKeldin and make further inroads in Congress.

Maryland's national committeewoman, Miss Bertha S. Adkins, suggests "Baltimore in '54" as next year's slogan. The implications is that Republicans are aiming at breaking the Democratic control of the big city vote in Baltimore.

The goal would be in keeping with the announced objective of the National Committee to penetrate Democratic strongholds in every large city in the country.

The immediate purpose of the dinner is to raise money to pursue these objectives.

Of the proceeds collected, part will go to the state and part to the national organization.

Girl, 14, Must Wait To Wed Step-Brother

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Barbara Haven must wait to marry her step-brother, Robert Bihler, 21.

Barbara is a daughter of Charles Haven. Robert is a son of Mrs. Haven.

School Bells Will Ring For Record Number Of Pupils

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—School bells will ring this fall for a record-breaking number of pupils.

Lee M. Thurston, U. S. commissioner of education, predicted today that 36,949,700 persons will enroll in schools and colleges during the year. Last year the total was 34,993,100.

Looking into the future, he foresaw an enrollment of about 45 million by 1960, with a consequent need for 425,000 additional classrooms and more and more teachers to supervise them.

Auto Smashups Fatal To Three

[By The Associated Press]

At least three persons were killed and six injured in two separate automobile accidents in Maryland late Tuesday and early Wednesday.

Two persons were listed as critical and two were on the serious list at Easton Memorial Hospital after a wreck that killed Mrs. Ethel James, Negro, about 35, in Centreville.

The car in which she and five others were riding failed to make a curve and crashed into a tree. The driver, William Dill, 23, only occupant of the car not hurt, was charged with manslaughter. The group of Negroes, all residents of Brownsville, were returning from a dance in Centreville when the accident happened.

In Western Maryland, two persons died in a head-on collision on U. S. 40 in Eckhart, two miles east of Frostburg.

Police identified the victims as Mrs. Dorothy Grace Hawkins, 26, Baltimore and Archie T. Barnes, 38, South Arlington, Va. Two others were hospitalized.

Bank Robber's Plea Rejected; Given 20 Years

FREDERICK, Aug. 26 (AP) — A plea he is crippled and didn't realize what was going on until too late failed to win leniency today for the third of the trio who held up the Peoples Bank at Libertytown, Md., on July 10.

Gilbert Littles, 34-year-old Negro from Harrisburg, Pa., pleaded guilty to charges of armed robbery and conspiracy to rob and was sentenced to 20 years in Maryland Penitentiary.

His two accomplices in the $15,000 holdup had been sent to prison at previous hearings. Richard Walters, alias Frank Allen, 42-year-old Niagara Falls, N. Y., man identified by police as ringleader of the crowd, was sentenced to 23 years. Lossie Archer, Negro from Steelton, Pa., drew 20 years.

They were caught in less than 30 minutes after the robbery as the result of a tip from an alert school teacher who noted their suspicious actions before they went into the bank.

State Police cruisers converging on Libertytown intercepted them coming into Frederick and chased them, sirens screaming, the wrong way down a one way street. After powering through Frederick's main intersection, the fleeing car piled into another.

Littles told his story to Circuit Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer today in a voice so wheezy he barely could be understood. He was shot in the neck several years ago, one arm is paralyzed, and he walks with a bad limp.

C. Clifton Virts, the blind Frederick attorney appointed by the court to defend Littles, made a plea for leniency on the basis of his client's physical condition.

Judge Schnauffer said the law made no allowance in such cases and pointed out Littles might get better medical care in the penitentiary than on the outside.

Littles told the court the bank robbery resulted from a drinking spree which started at Harrisburg earlier the same day.

He said he didn't know of any plan to rob a bank until Walters "gave me and Archer a gun and took a pillow case and rope out of the trunk after he changed the license plates."

SRC Calls For Bids On Three Projects, Including Route 40

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26 (AP) — The State Roads Commission today called for bids on three projects, including the first of four aimed at completing the Baltimore National Pike (U. S. 40) from Baltimore to the eastern edge of Frederick.

The heavily-traveled route is now a dual highway as far west as Ridgeville. Work already has started on projects which will take it across the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's old main line and State Route 27 just north of that town.

The SRC is now asking for bids on a three-mile stretch from New Market west to the Ijamsville Road. Bids will be opened in Baltimore Sept. 15.

The commission plans to ask for bids on the other three projects within the next six weeks. They will carry the dual highway on to the Monocacy River Bridge just east of Frederick.

Bids also will be opened Sept. 15 on the widening and resurfacing of a 3.4-mile stretch of Maryland Route 34 from near Antietam National Cemetery through Sharpsburg southwest to the Potomac River.

This is part of the state's new 12-year highway building program and is estimated to cost about $400,000.

Also asked were bids for converting U. S. 50 into a dual highway along the 1.7-mile stretch in Queen Anne's County between its interesection with U. S. 213 and Maryland Route 404.

The two intersections already are dual roads. The short stretch between is one of the most important interchanges on the Eastern Shore. The northernmost intersection mingles traffic to and from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge on U. S. 50 with that on U. S. 213 to and from Centreville, Chestertown and other points on the upper shore.

Strychnine Pills Fatal To Youngster

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 26 (AP) — Charles Jolley Jr. playing in his uncle's trunk, found some pretty red things that looked like candy.

The 18-month-old Negro youngster went into convulsions immediately after munching the tablets and died 10 minutes later in a hospital here.

Dr. John Mace, Dorchester County medical examiner, issued a verdict of accidental poisoning.

The pretty red things were strychnine pills used as a tonic for horses and cows.

An adult male ostrich may reach a height of eight feet.

Student Shot In Head With Rifle Critical

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 26 (AP)—Robert William Beach III, medical student at the University of Maryland, remained in critical condition at University Hospital today after he was shot in the head with a .22 caliber rifle.

State Police Trooper P. M. Hahn quoted the family as saying young Beach had been depressed recently. The shooting occurred yesterday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Beach II, two miles from here. Hahn said wounds apparently were self-inflicted.

Corporation Donations

A court decision in a test case in New Jersey last May dispelled lingering doubts about the legal right of an industrial corporation to donate a share of its profits to educational institutions. The decision is expected to stimulate the current efforts to persuade business to aid colleges and universities hard-pressed financially.

Corporations have been making charitable and other donations since World War I. However, the legality of these practices had been questioned and stockholder suits about them had hence been feared. The situation was clarified recently when more than one-half the states sanctioned corporate donations, and any remaining doubts are now believed to have been dissipated by the New Jersey decision.

Until 1936 all corporation donations, except those few that could be treated as business expense, had to come out of net income after taxes. Since 1936, however, corporations have been allowed to deduct charitable and other contributions up to five per cent of net income before taxes. Granting of the tax-free allowance in effect shifted to the Treasury a part of the cost of the contributions.

The tax incentive was of minor effect in promoting corporation giving so long as federal taxes remained low. But the situation changed in the war years. Then heavy corporation income and excess profits taxes enable business concerns to give away money largely at the expense of the Treasury.

Because of the high taxes, and also because of big increases in profits, aggregate corporate contributions rose from $30 million in 1936 to $266 million in 1945. Even at that figure total contributions barely exceeded one per cent of total profits as against the permissible maximum of five per cent.

When tax rates were lowered after the war, contributions fell off. Official statistics are not yet available for recent years, but the total of donations is believed to have risen to around $300 million under stimulus of the Korean War tax increases.

Sample surveys indicate that nearly one-half of the amount of corporation gifts goes to community chests and other welfare agencies, about one-fifth to education. With corporations utilizing only a fraction of the permissible deduction for donations, concerted efforts are being made to induce them to give more to educational institutions, particularly the private colleges and universities that have no recourse to tax revenues.

A movement to promote business support of higher education by adapting the community chest idea to college fund-raising has been gaining rapid headway since it started in Indiana five years ago. More than 300 colleges are now members of state or regional associations organized in all parts of the country to solicit contributions from corporations. Each association makes a joint appeal to prospective donors, who may contribute either to designated members of the association or to the group as a whole.

Business support of higher education has been strongly advocated by a number of top-flight industrialists. Five of those business leaders last winter established a national Council for Financial Aid to Education. The purpose was to impress upon businessmen the community of interests between the system of free education and the system of free enterprise. The council will neither solicit nor distribute funds. It will offer guidance to corporations with national interests, not easily approached by the state associations, in making gifts through the state and regional groups.

Increased business aid to private colleges is looked upon as an alternative to government aid and government control. It is recognized that substantial business aid may involve some risk of business control. However, the colleges already are potentially subject to business influence through heavy representation of the business community on boards of trustees and through dependence on income from invested funds and on gifts from wealthy alumni.

Drugs And GI's In Far East

U. S. Army officials in Korea and Japan declare that they have drug-taking by our soldiers there under good control. But the problem is a difficult one, and requires constant vigilance. One difficulty is that drugs are not only plentiful throughout the Far East but also cheap—for instance, compared with the price of liquor.

Another difficulty is that the opiates available are apt to be of much greater strength than those generally peddled in the United States. They could make drug addicts out of boys who in this country may have taken drugs so heavily "cut," and have taken these so intermittently, as to remain out of the addiction stage.

Also, our authorities in Korea and Japan are faced by the fact that opiate-growing is widespread among Asiatic farmers for whom it may be the only available cash crop. And opiate-peddling is regarded as less of a heinous offense than it is here, so that the Korean and Japanese civil authorities often mete out only light sentences to convicted peddlers.

"Remember the stories about teen-age drug addicts in our high schools about two years ago; well, those same kids are in the Army now." (It's a U. S. Army major in Korea speaking.) If any of the GI's captured by the Chinese Reds had been incipient addicts, it would have been all the more easy for the Reds to break down their resistance to Communist indoctrination.

Holy War In Morocco?

With the former sultan of Morocco deposed by the French and exiled to Corsica for his Nationalist (anti-French) attitude, his supporters in Morocco and Arab nationalists in other lands, especially Egypt, were muttering in their beards about a holy war, or Jihad, against his French-imposed successor.

The former sultan had been the religious as well as the temporal leader of Moroccan Mohammedans. The way was paved for deposing him when, a few days ago, a group of tribal leaders, or pashas, refused to recognize him any longer as the religious head of Islam in Morocco.

The Nationalists in demanding an end to the French protectorate over Morocco are supported largely by the educated and merchant groups and by the city workers. Against them the French have played off the Berber tribes, which are Mohammedan but not of Arab stock.

The new sultan, Pasha al-Glaoui, has long opposed the Nationalist party, the Istiqlal. He had exercised feudal sway over about one-sixth of Morocco. In 1951 his tribesmen moved into the capital to help enforce the French demand on the sultan to denounce the Istiqlal party and to remove Istiqlal members from his personal cabinet.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Three Forms Of Polio

Poliomyelitis, which was a rare disease at the turn of the century, has become a recognized threat in almost every state of the Union. According to our public health officials, last year the case and estimated death rate were the second highest in the history of our nation. There also has been a change in the geographic distribution of polio. Not long ago it was most prevalent in the north and south but now the rate is higher in the western and north central areas. In the south, the disease appears earlier and the epidemic span lasts longer.

Polio is feared because even if the victim survives he may be left paralyzed. But in recent years there has been a growing tendency to diagnosis two other forms: the abortive and the non-paralytic. This may explain partially why so many more cases are being reported; some are the children who are whisked away in an ambulance to the hospital. In less than a week they are home, having been discharged as cured.

In the abortive type, the malady never develops completely. During this brief illness the victim has fever and is bothered with loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, sore throat, and bizarre abdomnial pain. Unless a polio epidemic exists symptoms may be mistaken for a cold, dysentery, appendicitis, or irritability of the bowel. If polio is inevitable this is the type to get because it produces immunity to the infection with a minimum of discomfort and no after effects.

In the nonparalytic type, the disease goes a step farther; the virus invades the nervous system but not to the extent that paralysis ensues. Fever, nausea, vomiting, headache, weakness, and all the other reactions to the invading germs will appear, as well as stiffness of the neck, trunk and limbs. Spinal rigidity is evident when the youngster is asked to sit up in bed unassisted. To do so is an effort and may be impossible. Some are able to sit up for a few minutes; they are shaky and exhausted and finally place their hands behind them for a tripod support. When there is stiffness in the neck, pain prevents the youngster from flexing the chin to the chest.

The same symptoms occur in paralytic polio, plus weakness of one or more groups of muscles. In the spinal form, the muscles of the neck, abdomen, trunk, diaphragm, thorax, or extremities are affected. When the muscles of the head and face are involved, such as those used in swallowing and grimacing, the condition is called "bulbar polio." This is more serious because the vital centers of respiration and circulation may be affected. It now is possible to test the strength of the muscles of the body which enables the physician to make an accurate analysis of the extent of the damage. It also affords a measurement of the prospects for recovery.

TOMORROW: A peculiar epidemic of vein inflammation.

TRAVELING WITH CHILDREN

Mrs. W. writes: Last year you offered a leaflet which gave suggestions on how to cope with children on a long auto trip. We are planning a 2,000-mile tour with our youngsters and I would like to have this information if it still is available.

REPLY

Yes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this topic.

VESTIGIAL STRUCTURE

Mrs. R. writes: My 3-year-old child was born with a bronchial cyst on his face, touching his earlobe. Will it disappear or is there any treatment?

REPLY

Most lesions of this nature are easily removed via surgery.

TAKING THE PRESSURE

E. D. writes: Does it matter whether blood pressure readings are taken in the right or the left arm?

REPLY

Not in healthy individuals.

PROTECTION FOR TEACHER

P. V. I. writes: I am majoring in child study at college and would like to know what childhood diseases I should be inoculated against before returning to college in September. As a child I was inoculated against diphtheria and whooping cough, and I went through bouts of measles and chickenpox.

REPLY

I would suggest that you see your physician concerning smallpox vaccination and the Schick test. If the Schick test is positive, diphtheria immunization may be advised. At your age nothing need be done about prevention against whooping cough and mumps. But if you plan to work in a hospital or among groups where the incidence of tuberculosis is high, a tuberculin test is in order. If it is negative, BCG vaccine may be given consideration.

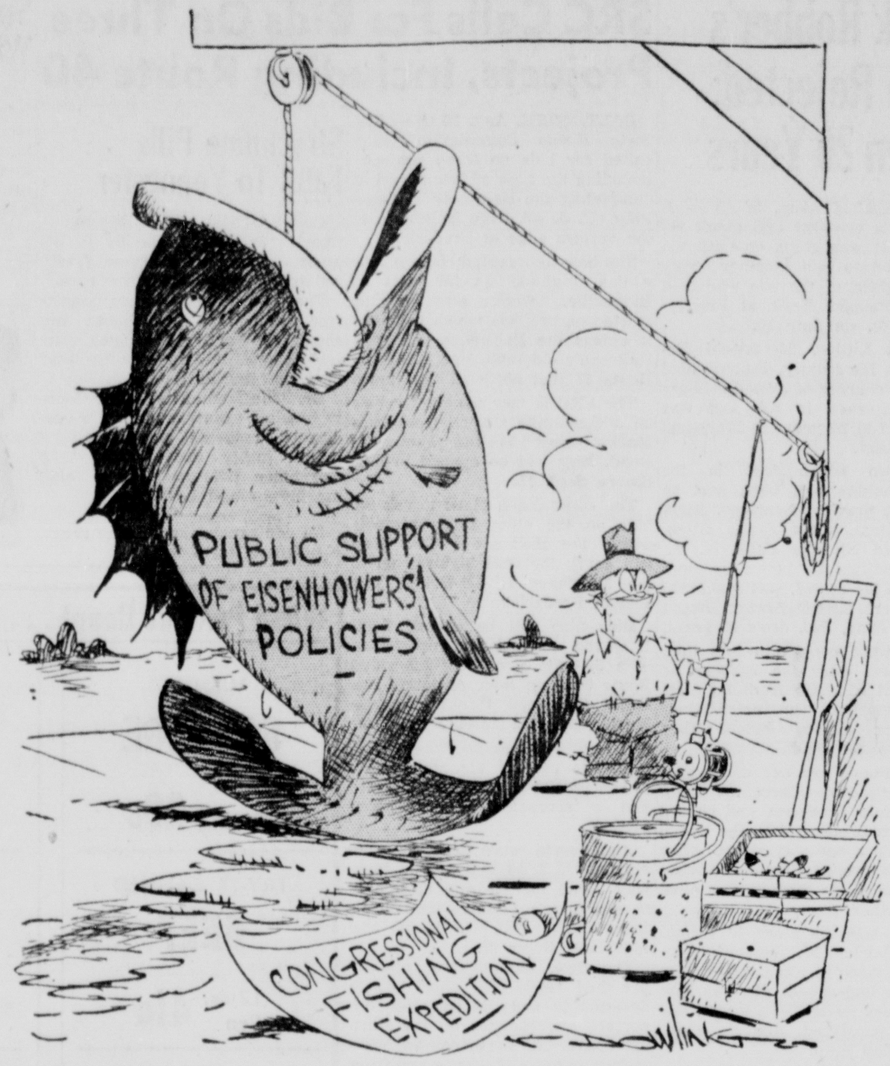

HAND CRAMPING

Mrs. D. writes: My aged mother is awakened every night with cramps in her hands. Is there anything we can do to help her?

REPLY

Your mother needs a physical examination because the causes of this disorder vary from poor circulation and anemia to pressure on a nerve in the neck.

French Strikers Want Tax Reforms And Adequate Housing; Secretary Weeks Would Like To Blame Others For Bureau Of Standards Affair

WASHINGTON — Unfortunate aspect about the strikes in France is that they are almost certain to happen again. France is likely to have a wave of paralyzing strikes —unless certain drastic reforms are made in the French tax system and the French system of food distribution.

Unpleasant but inescapable fact about the French economic situation is that the French government has been living on subsidies from the U.S. instead of collecting taxes. About the only people who pay real taxes in France are industrial workers, white collar workers and government employes — thanks to payroll deductions. But in the higher brackets taxes are just not collected.

During the tax year 1951-1952 for instance, only 7,300 Frenchmen declared income taxes on a salary of more than $6,000 a year. Of these, 2,000 were government officials whose salaries are a matter of public record and who therefore could not fudge. Another 1,000 were officials of semi-government institutions—railroads, banks, gas and utility companies—whose salaries also are known.

This left 4,300 Frenchmen who claimed they were paid $6,000 or more. Since the number should have been nearer 100,000, this meant that about 95,000 Frenchmen in the upper brackets simply cheated on their income taxes.

And the French government did absolutely nothing about it. There is no Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews in France.

French taxes are plenty high—higher than ours. If a Frenchman makes $10,000, he pays around 65 per cent. If he goes much higher than this the taxes are almost confiscatory. But the upper bracket French simply do not pay, and the government makes little effort to collect.

Meanwhile, workers—with taxes deducted from the payrolls—do pay, and this was one of the biggest basic reasons behind the crippling strikes.

No Housing

Reason No. 2—was the zooming price of food. Food prices in France are actually higher than in the United States, though wages are much lower.

Reason No. 3—was almost complete failure by the French government to do anything about housing.

After the war, the French government instituted a low-cost housing program under which apartments were to be built by the government and rented primarily to war veterans. However, they are being built so slowly that one veteran friend of mine with a long and heroic record will have to wait 87 years before he can get an apartment. Paris needs 200,000 apartments and the government is building them at the rate of 1,200 a year.

The government is also subsidizing a housing program by private industry. About 4,000 are now built and are selling like hot cakes for around $20,000.

The sight of wealthy citizens gobbling up these apartments built through the aid of French government funds also helped induce the strikes.

Premier Laniel, himself one of the wealthier men of France, made the mistake of tightening the French economic belt at the expense of the working classes, not the upper brackets. Result: Blazing indignation from the Catholic trade unions and the moderate non-Communist unions. The strikes they started are bound to flare again, unless French economic inequalities get back into balance.

NOTE — French workers also watched the way French winegrowers blocked roads, held up all traffic in wine areas until the government agree to buy their surplus wine. The government surrendered. French workers figured that if a wealthier group could buck the government and win, they could also.

Weeks' Weak Spot

More of the inside facts about the firing and unfiring of Dr. Allen Astin, chief of the Bureau of Standards, can now be told.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks privately has blamed Vice President Nixon for getting him into the Astin hot water. It was Nixon who went to bat for one of his California constituents, Jess M. Ritchie, maker of the now notorious battery additive AD-X2 which Dr. Astin's experts found to be of no value in prolonging the life of batteries. Nixon, not an expert on anything technical, complained about Astin to Secretary Weeks.

Another new administration leader who got Weeks into the Astin jam was Assistant Secretary of Commerce Craig Sheaffer, the fountain pen manufacturer, and who contributed $1,000 to Senator McCarthy and $1,300 to rabble-rouser Merwin K. Hart. Sheaffer once had a ball-point pen tested by the Bureau of Standards and did not like certain requests they made for what he considered confidential information.

Secretary Weeks has now transferred the Bureau of Standards from Sheaffer's jurisdiction inside the Commerce Department.

What Weeks didn't know when he went off half-cocked in firing Astin was that the bureau had developed the proximity fuse which was rushed to Belgium in the winter of 1944 and helped check General Eisenhower's retreat in the Battle of the Bulge. Weeks also didn't know that almost every important scientist in the bureau was ready to quit in protest against Astin's dismissal.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Adlai Stevenson says that while the Democratic party lost the last election it won the admiration of the free world. He added — in a facetious vein — that the Democrats could have carried "every country from Britain to Korea."

That was just the reason why the Democrats lost — there were too many Amercans who thought the Truman-Acheson policy was a "Europe first" affair and that American billions were not limitless. The "free world" — and it might be added facetiously, too, that nearly everything was free so far as giving away American billions were concerned — naturally believed the Democrats would be more "liberal" with American funds than the Republicans.

As it turns out, the Eisenhower administration is continuing foreign aid in rather substantial quantity, so the Europeans were unnecessarily alarmed when they put their bets on Stevenson and feared the Republican "economizers."

Similar Objectives Abroad

What former Governor Stevenson didn't touch on was the real reason why the Truman-Acheson administration has been popular abroad, entirely apart from the money given foreign countries. The belief has existed abroad that all Republicans are "isolationists" and that only the Democrats would maintain a large standing army of American soldiers overseas for many years to come, whereas the Republicans mght become impatient and require that Europe undertake the biggest burden in defending itself. The truth is the Eisenhower administration doesn't differ from its predecessor on long-range objectives abroad.

But what Europe or Asia thinks about American policy will not decide American elections. Governor Stevenson's chances of being the presidential candidate of his party in 1956 do not depend on the evolution of American foreign policy. It was a good thing from his own standpoint that he made the lengthy trip, because it had been argued by critics that he lacked experience in international affairs. Wendell Willkie after his defeat in 1940 became a world traveler for much the same reason

But, if American historical experience is any guide, it will be domestic policy that will determine the issues in the next campaign and especially the selection of a candidate on the Democratic ticket. Presumably all aspirants to the Democratic nomination will be on the side of more money and more troops for the defense of Europe and Asia as against Communist imperialism. But what will be the differences of opinion as between would-be nominees on domestic questions?

First of all, Mr. Stevenson may not like it, but he will discover that Trumanism is still unpopular with the majority and that "McCarthyism" as an issue will not be adequate to take care of the deep-seated distrust which so many voters have had concerning the Democratic party's bungling tactics in handling Communists in the government. A prospective candidate who is 100 per cent anti-Communist and has such a record by 1956 will have a better chance of capturing the party's nomination than someone who is lukewarm on the issue and spends his time arguing academic questions about congressional committee "methods."

Byrd Logical Candidate

Next, and not less important, is the attitude which Mr. Stevenson may decide to take on the record of the Truman-Roosevelt administrations. While he can say in general that he applauds that record, he must sooner or later begin to show that he is not going to be a Trumanite but an independent-minded person who doesn't hesitate to criticize some of the serious economic mistakes made by the Democratic party. If Mr. Stevenson is going to depend for his platform on the spending of larger and larger sums for so-called social welfare, he will not endear himself to the vast majority of the taxpayers who want their levies reduced. The spending spree is nearly over —and the day that some alert and able personality in the Democratic party discovers it, he will be on the road to a nomination by his party and possible victory at the polls.

As a matter of fact, the most logical individual in the Democratic party today to become the presidential nominee is Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. He could get not only the support of the regular Democratic vote but a substantial Republican vote if he were nominated.

The Democrats might as well realize that the trend toward radicalism and state socialism has been reversed and that the majority to be corralled will be largely made up of the middle-of-the-road American voters in both farm and factory. Issues rather than personal charm or eloquence on the stump bring about the selection of candidates by a political party in America — and Governor Stevenson has a good chance to be the Democratic standard bearer again only if he interprets correctly the trend away from Trumanism and New Dealism.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

What's The Matter With France?

"France is sick."

This phrase, or something very like it, crops up again and again in all conversations with French officials or political leaders. For a long time it has been obvious that France has been suffering from some sort of sickness—that something has been wrong somewhere. But never in this reporter's experience has there been in France so general an atmosphere of paralysis and bitter stagnation.

At least two distinct diagnoses of the French illness have been made since the war in the United States. It was first assumed that the French illness was essentially economic. Put France back on her feet economically, it was reasoned, and French national unity and national power would be restored.

Economic aid has had great negative benefits—without it, for example, France would almost certainly be Communist. But there have been precious few positive benefits—no one could claim for France today the political health which was supposed to follow on economic recovery.

The plain fact is that France has not really recovered economically —it has merely been kept ticking over. France is a rich country, the richest in Europe in many respects. Yet French industrial production has increased at a rate far lower than that of any other European country, including even poverty-stricken Italy. Inflation continues, the French franc is shakier than ever (there is talk now of another devaluation), and the French government is faced with a colossal deficit.

Positive Action Difficult

The second American diagnosis of the French illness was essentially military. A soundly defended France it was argued would be a politically sound France. Again, military aid has had great benefits. The Russians at least face a serious deterrent force in Western Europe. The Red army is not likely to march to Paris the day after tomorrow, and without warning. But again, these benefits have been negative, and palliative. There is still, after three years of Western rearmament, no solid defense of Western Europe.

Many thoughtful observers here, both French and American, have come to the conclusion that the heart of the trouble lies in the built-in veto power which permeates the whole French political and economic system. This veto power has consistently operated to prevent any positive action on any front, at home or abroad.

The veto power has just been used again, to torpedo Premier Joseph Laniel's plan for stringent government economy. The French government workers, who used the veto power in the form of a crippling nation-wide strike, are miserably underpaid, as Laniel himself agrees. But the workers are underpaid largely because food and other basic necessities are over-priced. And under the French political system, the French farmers and shopkeepers are powerful enough to bring down any government which seriously attempted to reduce the artificially high food prices.

Similarly, the obvious place to start any serious effort to bring order out of France's economic chaos is with the archaic tax system, which makes cheating the government a national pastime. Everyone agrees that this is so. But everyone also agrees that any government which tries to make a serious reform would instantly be destroyed by the industrialists, farmers, and others with a vested interest in the present system.

New System Needed

This universal veto power has produced a sort of stagnant equilibrium in this rich country. The built-in veto produces the same stagnation abroad.

For at least five years, most responsible French leaders have agreed that the Indo-Chinese war can never be won without genuine independence for Indo-China. Yet all this time French colonial and economic interests have vetoed real Indo-Chinese independence—and it is very possibly now too late. Again, it was the French themselves who originally proposed the European army project three years ago—and they have been vetoing it ever since.

The French seem quite likely, indeed, to veto any German military contribution, whether in a European army or in any other form, for the defense of Western Europe. All responsible French leaders agree that the defense of Western Europe is impossible without some sort of German military contribution. Since Western Europe includes France, the French thus seem in a fair way to veto the defense of Europe.

Here there is one hopeful thing to be said. Many French leaders are now convinced that a system which puts a maximum premium on paralysis cannot be permitted to endure. Two recent investiture speeches, by Pierre Mendes-France and Paul Reynaud, had a remarkable impact here. Both speeches called for a basic and radical reform in the flabby French political and economic system.

Until France gets a system which gives the government the power to override the veto of the special interest groups, the French sickness will endure. In the meantime, we might as well face the fact that the malady is more deeply rooted than we had supposed, and that it will be a long time in the curing.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Foreign Aid Program

When foreign aid was sold to the American people, it was to "promote the general welfare, national interest, and foreign policy of the United States." These are the phrases which appeared in the report of the Committee on Foreign Relations presided over by Senator Arthur Vandenberg. He asked Congress to authorize an expenditure of $5,300,000,000 for the first of a four-year operation. The object was "to help European nations to help themselves to recovery in such a way as to become independent of outside assistance."

This was in 1948 and the foreign aid program is still with us, amounting in this year's budget to $6,800,000,000 and totaling altogether approximately $60,000,000,000 for the short period of five years. The end is not yet in sight. In fact, the Foreign Operations Administration, headed by Harold Stassen, has been separated from the State Department and seems to have been put on a permanent basis. Maybe foreign aid is permanent, too.

When the American people first agreed to a $5,300,000,000 European Recovery Program, they never could conceive that this would be such a montrous growth, in time consuming so large a share of their earnings. But there it is for us to live with.

Senator Vandenberg's report included these statements:

"This kind of assistance, in peacetime, is without precedent in the history of mankind. This assistance is not, and cannot be, a permanent feature of American foreign policy. For Americans, the approval of this act represents a major decision. If Europeans fully understand this decision, they will realize that the United States is making adjustments almost as severe as they are likely to call upon each other to make. Above the details of the legislation, the debates, the statistics, and the work sheets, it is the expression of a great ideal of common welfare and peace. . ."

The Europeans disappointed Senator Vandenberg's postulates. They have not assumed that we placed severe strains upon ourselves to aid them. Instead, they say that had we not required them to take great quantities of our goods, we should have had an economic disaster of great dimensions. Therefore, they did us a favor by taking our money; otherwise, we should have had unemployment of at least 10,000,000. I have listened to that argument ad nauseum.

The assumption that the foreign aid program would bring us friendship and allies has proved to be without foundation. Where are those friends? True, we lost the Korean War, but does that mean that the winner takes all? The conduct of Great Britain and Canada in the United Nations over the seating of Soviet Russia on "our side" gives the impression that it does. It gives an American the impression that Great Britain is vying with India to be Malenkov's broker in the United Nations.

The anti-American development in France and Italy could have been anticipated. In those countries, the Communist party is enormous. The recent Italian elections make any government unstable and Togliatti, the Communist leader, is again speaking his mind freely on issues, because what he says counts. In France, Thorez, having returned from Soviet Russia after a 29-month absence, has achieved the goal of political strikes. In France, into which we have poured billions of dollars, little of our money percolated to the people whose standard of living is steadily falling.

In Japan, the situation is now very bad and it would be correct to expect much deterioration. The defeat of the United States in Korea imperils Japan. Certainly, when American troops are withdrawn from Korea, Japan must come to some agreement with Communist China and Soviet Russia. Otherwise Japan will be in danger of starvation, if not of invasion.

The Japanese want to trade with Communist China because it is important for them to get their food from that country, particularly rice and soy beans. Should Indo-China and Thailand fall to the Communists, Japan will have no alternatives but to join them unless we accept the proposition that the United States will permanently make up Japanese deficits.

A report of this nature is not pessimism. It is precise reporting of developments which are taking place and which cannot be ignored. It is not enough that some top officials in Washington evaluate the situation accurately, if they do. The people of this country ought also to know the facts and realize that the foreign aid program has, from the American standpoint, proved to be a dud.

Corporation Donations

A court decision in a test case in New Jersey last May dispelled lingering doubts about the legal right of an industrial corporation to donate a share of its profits to educational institutions. The decision is expected to stimulate the current efforts to persuade business to aid colleges and universities hard-pressed financially.

Corporations have been making charitable and other donations since World War I. However, the legality of these practices had been questioned and stockholder suits about them had hence been feared. The situation was clarified recently when more than one-half the states sanctioned corporate donations, and any remaining doubts are now believed to have been dissipated by the New Jersey decision.

Until 1936 all corporation donations, except those few that could be treated as business expense, had to come out of net income after taxes. Since 1936, however, corporations have been allowed to deduct charitable and other contributions up to five per cent of net income before taxes. Granting of the tax-free allowance in effect shifted to the Treasury a part of the cost of the contributions.

The tax incentive was of minor effect in promoting corporation giving so long as federal taxes remained low. But the situation changed in the war years. Then heavy corporation income and excess profits taxes enable business concerns to give away money largely at the expense of the Treasury.

Because of the high taxes, and also because of big increases in profits, aggregate corporate contributions rose from $30 million in 1936 to $266 million in 1945. Even at that figure total contributions barely exceeded one per cent of total profits as against the permissible maximum of five per cent.

When tax rates were lowered after the war, contributions fell off. Official statistics are not yet available for recent years, but the total of donations is believed to have risen to around $300 million under stimulus of the Korean War tax increases.

Sample surveys indicate that nearly one-half of the amount of corporation gifts goes to community chests and other welfare agencies, about one-fifth to education. With corporations utilizing only a fraction of the permissible deduction for donations, concerted efforts are being made to induce them to give more to educational institutions, particularly the private colleges and universities that have no recourse to tax revenues.

A movement to promote business support of higher education by adapting the community chest idea to college fund-raising has been gaining rapid headway since it started in Indiana five years ago. More than 300 colleges are now members of state or regional associations organized in all parts of the country to solicit contributions from corporations. Each association makes a joint appeal to prospective donors, who may contribute either to designated members of the association or to the group as a whole.

Business support of higher education has been strongly advocated by a number of top-flight industrialists. Five of those business leaders last winter established a national Council for Financial Aid to Education. The purpose was to impress upon businessmen the community of interests between the system of free education and the system of free enterprise. The council will neither solicit nor distribute funds. It will offer guidance to corporations with national interests, not easily approached by the state associations, in making gifts through the state and regional groups.

Increased business aid to private colleges is looked upon as an alternative to government aid and government control. It is recognized that substantial business aid may involve some risk of business control. However, the colleges already are potentially subject to business influence through heavy representation of the business community on boards of trustees and through dependence on income from invested funds and on gifts from wealthy alumni.

Drugs And GI's In Far East

U. S. Army officials in Korea and Japan declare that they have drug-taking by our soldiers there under good control. But the problem is a difficult one, and requires constant vigilance. One difficulty is that drugs are not only plentiful throughout the Far East but also cheap—for instance, compared with the price of liquor.

Another difficulty is that the opiates available are apt to be of much greater strength than those generally peddled in the United States. They could make drug addicts out of boys who in this country may have taken drugs so heavily "cut," and have taken these so intermittently, as to remain out of the addiction stage.

Also, our authorities in Korea and Japan are faced by the fact that opiate-growing is widespread among Asiatic farmers for whom it may be the only available cash crop. And opiate-peddling is regarded as less of a heinous offense than it is here, so that the Korean and Japanese civil authorities often mete out only light sentences to convicted peddlers.

"Remember the stories about teen-age drug addicts in our high schools about two years ago; well, those same kids are in the Army now." (It's a U. S. Army major in Korea speaking.) If any of the GI's captured by the Chinese Reds had been incipient addicts, it would have been all the more easy for the Reds to break down their resistance to Communist indoctrination.

Holy War In Morocco?

With the former sultan of Morocco deposed by the French and exiled to Corsica for his Nationalist (anti-French) attitude, his supporters in Morocco and Arab nationalists in other lands, especially Egypt, were muttering in their beards about a holy war, or Jihad, against his French-imposed successor.

The former sultan had been the religious as well as the temporal leader of Moroccan Mohammedans. The way was paved for deposing him when, a few days ago, a group of tribal leaders, or pashas, refused to recognize him any longer as the religious head of Islam in Morocco.

The Nationalists in demanding an end to the French protectorate over Morocco are supported largely by the educated and merchant groups and by the city workers. Against them the French have played off the Berber tribes, which are Mohammedan but not of Arab stock.

The new sultan, Pasha al-Glaoui, has long opposed the Nationalist party, the Istiqlal. He had exercised feudal sway over about one-sixth of Morocco. In 1951 his tribesmen moved into the capital to help enforce the French demand on the sultan to denounce the Istiqlal party and to remove Istiqlal members from his personal cabinet.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Three Forms Of Polio

Poliomyelitis, which was a rare disease at the turn of the century, has become a recognized threat in almost every state of the Union. According to our public health officials, last year the case and estimated death rate were the second highest in the history of our nation. There also has been a change in the geographic distribution of polio. Not long ago it was most prevalent in the north and south but now the rate is higher in the western and north central areas. In the south, the disease appears earlier and the epidemic span lasts longer.

Polio is feared because even if the victim survives he may be left paralyzed. But in recent years there has been a growing tendency to diagnosis two other forms: the abortive and the non-paralytic. This may explain partially why so many more cases are being reported; some are the children who are whisked away in an ambulance to the hospital. In less than a week they are home, having been discharged as cured.

In the abortive type, the malady never develops completely. During this brief illness the victim has fever and is bothered with loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, sore throat, and bizarre abdomnial pain. Unless a polio epidemic exists symptoms may be mistaken for a cold, dysentery, appendicitis, or irritability of the bowel. If polio is inevitable this is the type to get because it produces immunity to the infection with a minimum of discomfort and no after effects.

In the nonparalytic type, the disease goes a step farther; the virus invades the nervous system but not to the extent that paralysis ensues. Fever, nausea, vomiting, headache, weakness, and all the other reactions to the invading germs will appear, as well as stiffness of the neck, trunk and limbs. Spinal rigidity is evident when the youngster is asked to sit up in bed unassisted. To do so is an effort and may be impossible. Some are able to sit up for a few minutes; they are shaky and exhausted and finally place their hands behind them for a tripod support. When there is stiffness in the neck, pain prevents the youngster from flexing the chin to the chest.

The same symptoms occur in paralytic polio, plus weakness of one or more groups of muscles. In the spinal form, the muscles of the neck, abdomen, trunk, diaphragm, thorax, or extremities are affected. When the muscles of the head and face are involved, such as those used in swallowing and grimacing, the condition is called "bulbar polio." This is more serious because the vital centers of respiration and circulation may be affected. It now is possible to test the strength of the muscles of the body which enables the physician to make an accurate analysis of the extent of the damage. It also affords a measurement of the prospects for recovery.

TOMORROW: A peculiar epidemic of vein inflammation.

TRAVELING WITH CHILDREN

Mrs. W. writes: Last year you offered a leaflet which gave suggestions on how to cope with children on a long auto trip. We are planning a 2,000-mile tour with our youngsters and I would like to have this information if it still is available.

REPLY

Yes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this topic.

VESTIGIAL STRUCTURE

Mrs. R. writes: My 3-year-old child was born with a bronchial cyst on his face, touching his earlobe. Will it disappear or is there any treatment?

REPLY

Most lesions of this nature are easily removed via surgery.

TAKING THE PRESSURE

E. D. writes: Does it matter whether blood pressure readings are taken in the right or the left arm?

REPLY

Not in healthy individuals.

PROTECTION FOR TEACHER

P. V. I. writes: I am majoring in child study at college and would like to know what childhood diseases I should be inoculated against before returning to college in September. As a child I was inoculated against diphtheria and whooping cough, and I went through bouts of measles and chickenpox.

REPLY

I would suggest that you see your physician concerning smallpox vaccination and the Schick test. If the Schick test is positive, diphtheria immunization may be advised. At your age nothing need be done about prevention against whooping cough and mumps. But if you plan to work in a hospital or among groups where the incidence of tuberculosis is high, a tuberculin test is in order. If it is negative, BCG vaccine may be given consideration.

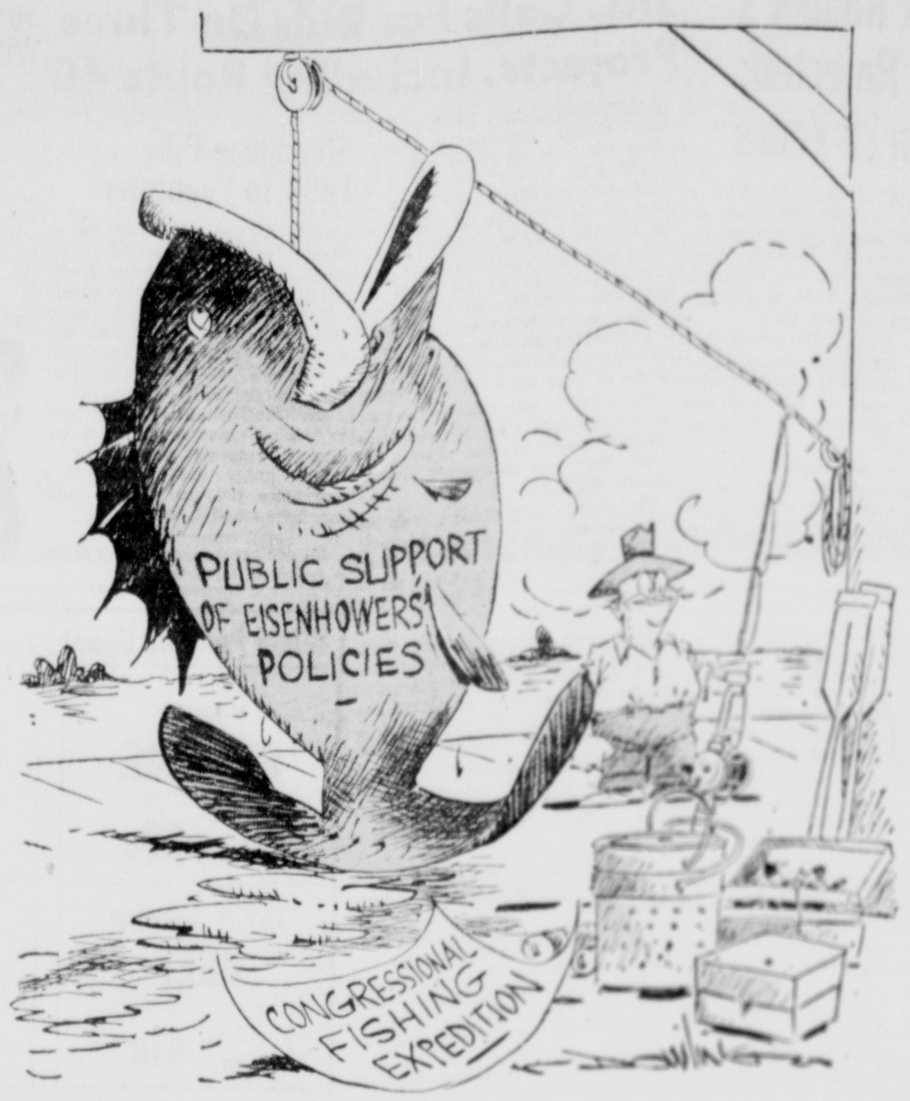

HAND CRAMPING

Mrs. D. writes: My aged mother is awakened every night with cramps in her hands. Is there anything we can do to help her?

REPLY

Your mother needs a physical examination because the causes of this disorder vary from poor circulation and anemia to pressure on a nerve in the neck.

French Strikers Want Tax Reforms And Adequate Housing; Secretary Weeks Would Like To Blame Others For Bureau Of Standards Affair

WASHINGTON — Unfortunate aspect about the strikes in France is that they are almost certain to happen again. France is likely to have a wave of paralyzing strikes —unless certain drastic reforms are made in the French tax system and the French system of food distribution.

Unpleasant but inescapable fact about the French economic situation is that the French government has been living on subsidies from the U.S. instead of collecting taxes. About the only people who pay real taxes in France are industrial workers, white collar workers and government employes — thanks to payroll deductions. But in the higher brackets taxes are just not collected.

During the tax year 1951-1952 for instance, only 7,300 Frenchmen declared income taxes on a salary of more than $6,000 a year. Of these, 2,000 were government officials whose salaries are a matter of public record and who therefore could not fudge. Another 1,000 were officials of semi-government institutions—railroads, banks, gas and utility companies—whose salaries also are known.

This left 4,300 Frenchmen who claimed they were paid $6,000 or more. Since the number should have been nearer 100,000, this meant that about 95,000 Frenchmen in the upper brackets simply cheated on their income taxes.

And the French government did absolutely nothing about it. There is no Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews in France.

French taxes are plenty high—higher than ours. If a Frenchman makes $10,000, he pays around 65 per cent, if he goes much higher than this the taxes are almost confiscatory. But the upper bracket French simply do not pay, and the government makes little effort to collect.

Meanwhile, workers—with taxes deducted from the payrolls—do pay, and this was one of the biggest basic reasons behind the crippling strikes.

No Housing

Reason No. 2—was the soaring price of food. Food prices in France are actually higher than in the United States, though wages are much lower.

Reason No. 3—was almost complete failure by the French government to do anything about housing.

After the war, the French government instituted a low-cost housing program under which apartments were to be built by the government and rented primarily to war veterans. However, they are being built so slowly that one veteran friend of mine with a large and house-owned will have to wait 47 years before he can get an apartment. Paris needs 200,000 apartments and the government is building them at the rate of 1,200 a year.

The government is also subsidizing a housing program by private industry. About 4,000 are now built and are selling (as for rates for around $20,000.

The sight of wealthy citizens getting up their apartments built through the aid of French government funds also helped inflame the strikers.

Premier Laniel, himself one of the wealthiest men of France, made the mistake of tightening the French economic belt at the expense of the working classes, not the upper brackets. Result: Strong opposition from the Catholic trade unions and the moderate non-Communist unions. The strikes thus started are bound to flare again, unless French economic inequalities get back into balance.

NOTE — French workers also watched the way French wine growers bucked trade, held up all traffic in wine until the government agreed to let their subsidies stay. The government succumbed. French workers figured that if a wealthy group could hold the government up, so could they.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Adlai Stevenson says that while the Democratic party lost the last election it won the admiration of the free world. He added — in a facetious vein — that the Democrats could have carried "every country from Britain to Korea."

That was just the reason why the Democrats lost — there were too many Americans who thought the Truman-Acheson policy was a "Europe first" affair and that American billions were not limitless. The "free world" — and it might be added facetiously, too, that nearly everything was free so far as giving away American billions were concerned — naturally believed the Democrats would be more "liberal" with American funds than the Republicans.

As it turns out, the Eisenhower administration is continuing foreign aid in rather substantial quantity, so the Europeans were unnecessarily alarmed when they put their bets on Stevenson and feared the Republican "economizers."

Similar Objectives Abroad

What former Governor Stevenson didn't touch on was the real reason why the Truman-Acheson administration has been popular abroad, entirely apart from the money given foreign countries. The belief has existed abroad that all Republicans are "isolationists" and that only the Democrats would maintain a large standing army of American soldiers overseas for many years to come, whereas the Republicans might become impatient and require that Europe undertake the biggest burden in defending itself. The truth is the Eisenhower administration doesn't differ from its predecessor on long-range objectives abroad.

But what Europe or Asia thinks about American policy will not decide American elections. Governor Stevenson's chances of being the presidential candidate of his party in 1956 do not depend on the evolution of American foreign policy. It was a good thing from his own standpoint that he made the lengthy trip, because it had been argued by critics that he lacked experience in international affairs. Wendell Willkie after his defeat in 1940 became a world traveler for much the same reason.

But, if American historical experience is any guide, it will be domestic policy that will determine the issues in the next campaign and especially the selection of a candidate on the Democratic ticket. Presumably all aspirants to the Democratic nomination will be on the side of more money and more troops for the defense of Europe and Asia as against Communist imperialism. But what will be the differences of opinion as between would-be nominees on domestic questions?

First of all, Mr. Stevenson may not like it, but he will discover that Trumanism is still unpopular with the majority and that "McCarthyism" as an issue will not be adequate to take care of the deep-seated distrust which so many voters have had concerning the Democratic party's bungling tactics in handling Communists in the government. A prospective candidate who is 100 per cent anti-Communist and has such a record by 1956 will have a better chance of capturing the party's nomination than someone who is lukewarm on the issue and spends his time arguing academic questions about congressional committee "methods."

Byrd Logical Candidate

Next, and not less important, is the attitude which Mr. Stevenson may decide to take on the record of the Truman-Roosevelt administrations. While he can say in general that he applauds that record, he must sooner or later begin to show that he is not going to be a Trumanite but an independent-minded person who doesn't hesitate to criticize some of the serious economic mistakes made by the Democratic party. If Mr. Stevenson is going to depend for his platform on the spending of larger and larger sums for so-called social welfare, he will not endear himself to the vast majority of the taxpayers who want their levies reduced. The spending spree is nearly over —and the day that some alert and able personality in the Democratic party discovers it, he will be on the road to a nomination by his party and possible victory at the polls.

As a matter of fact, the most logical individual in the Democratic party today to become the presidential nominee is Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. He could get not only the support of the regular Democratic vote but a substantial Republican vote if he were nominated.

The Democrats might as well realize that the trend toward radicalism and state socialism has been reversed and that the majority to be corralled will be largely made up of the middle-of-the-road American voters in both farm and factory. Issues rather than personal charm or eloquence on the stump bring about the selection of candidates by a political party in America — and Governor Stevenson has a good chance to be the Democratic standard bearer again only if he interprets correctly the trend away from Trumanism and New Dealism.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

What's The Matter With France?

"France is sick."

This phrase, or something very like it, crops up again and again in all conversations with French officials or political leaders. For a long time it has been obvious that France has been suffering from some sort of sickness—that something has been wrong somewhere. But never in this reporter's experience has there been in France so general an atmosphere of paralysis and bitter stagnation.

At least two distinct diagnoses of the French illness have been made since the war in the United States. It was first assumed that the French illness was essentially economic. Put France back on her feet economically, it was reasoned, and French national unity and national power would be restored.

Economic aid has had great negative benefits—without it, for example, France would almost certainly be Communist. But there have been precious few positive benefits—no one could claim for France today the political health which was supposed to follow on economic recovery.

The plain fact is that France has not really recovered economically—it has merely been kept ticking over. France is a rich country, the richest in Europe in many respects. Yet French industrial production has increased at a rate far lower than that of any other European country, including even poverty-stricken Italy. Inflation continues, the French franc is shakier than ever (there is talk now of another devaluation), and the French government is faced with a colossal deficit.

Positive Action Difficult

The second American diagnosis of the French illness was essentially military. A soundly defended France it was argued would be a politically sound France. Again, military aid has had great benefits. The Russians at least face a serious deterrent force in Western Europe. The Red army is not likely to march to Paris the day after tomorrow, and without warning. But again, these benefits have been negative, and palliative. There is still, after three years of Western rearmament, no solid defense of Western Europe.

Many thoughtful observers here, both French and American, have come to the conclusion that the heart of the trouble lies in the built-in veto power which permeates the whole French political and economic system. This veto power has consistently operated to prevent any positive action on any front, at home or abroad.

The veto power has just been used again, to torpedo Premier Joseph Laniel's plan for stringent government economy. The French government workers, who used the veto power in the form of a crippling nation-wide strike, are miserably underpaid, as Laniel himself agrees. But the workers are underpaid largely because food and other basic necessities are over-priced. And under the French political system, the French farmers and shopkeepers are powerful enough to bring down any government which seriously attempted to reduce the artificially high food prices.

Similarly, the obvious place to start any serious effort to bring order out of France's economic chaos is with the archaic tax system, which makes cheating the government a national pastime. Everyone agrees that this is so. But everyone also agrees that any government which tries to make a serious reform would instantly be destroyed by the industrialists, farmers, and others with a vested interest in the present system.

New System Needed

This universal veto power has produced a sort of stagnant equilibrium in this rich country. The built-in veto produces the same stagnation abroad.

For at least five years, most responsible French leaders have agreed that the Indo-Chinese war can never be won without genuine independence for Indo-China. Yet all this time French colonial and economic interests have vetoed real Indo-Chinese independence—and it is very possibly now too late. Again, it was the French themselves who originally proposed the European army project three years ago—and they have been vetoing it ever since.

The French seem quite likely, indeed, to veto any German military contribution, whether in a European army or in any other form, for the defense of Western Europe. All responsible French leaders agree that the defense of Western Europe is impossible without some sort of German military contribution. Since Western Europe includes France, the French thus seem in a fair way to veto the defense of Europe.

Here there is one hopeful thing to be said. Many French leaders are now convinced that a system which puts a maximum premium on paralysis cannot be permitted to endure. Two recent investiture speeches, by Pierre Mendes-France and Paul Reynaud, had a remarkable impact here. Both speeches called for a basic and radical reform in the flabby French political and economic system.

Until France gets a system which gives the government the power to override the veto of the special interest groups, the French sickness will endure. In the meantime, we might as well face the fact that the malady is more deeply rooted than we had supposed, and that it will be a long time in the curing.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Foreign Aid Program

When foreign aid was sold to the American people, it was to "promote the general welfare, national interest, and foreign policy of the United States." These are the phrases which appeared in the report of the Committee on Foreign Relations penned over by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, R. He asked Congress to authorize an expenditure of $5,300,000,000 for the first of a four-year operation. The object was "to help European nations to help themselves to recovery in such a way as to become independent of outside assistance."

This was in 1948 and the foreign aid program is still with us, amounting in this year's budget to $5,000,000,000 and totaling altogether approximately $60,000,000,000 for the short period of five years. The end is not yet in sight. In fact, the Foreign Operations Administration, headed by Harold Stassen, has been separated from the State Department and seems to have been put on a permanent basis. Maybe foreign aid is permanent, too.

When the American people first agreed to a $5,300,000,000 European Recovery Program, they never could conceive that this would be such a monstrous burden as it has become. Even those concerning so large a share of their earnings. But there it is for us to live with.

Senator Vandenberg's report included these statements:

"This kind of assistance, in peacetime, is without precedent in the history of mankind. This assistance is not, and cannot be, a permanent feature of American foreign policy. For Americans, the approval of this act represents a major decision. If Europeans fully understand this decision, they will realize that the United States is making effectiveness almost as secure as they are likely to call upon such relief to make. Above the debate of the legislation, the debates, the statistics, and the work sheets, it is the expression of a great deal of common welfare and peace."

The Europeans disappointed Senator Vandenberg's predictions. They have not realized that we placed seven billion (one hundred) dollars ourselves to get them. Instead, they say that had we not required them to take great quantities of our goods, we should have had an economic disaster of our own and helped check Communist infiltration in the Middle East. Many Americans also don't know that almost every important scientist in the Soviet was ready to quit in protest against Stalin's dictatorship.

The assistance program has become a disaster of great dimensions. Therefore, they did us a favor by taking our money; otherwise, we should have had unemployment of at least 10,000,000. I have listened to that argument ad nauseum.

The assumption that the foreign aid program would bring us friendship and allies has proved to be without foundation. Where are those friends? True, we lost the Korean War, but does that mean that the winner takes all? The conduct of Great Britain and Canada in the United Nations over the seating of Soviet Russia on "our side" gives the impression that it does. It gives an American the impression that Great Britain is vying with India to be Malenkov's broker in the United Nations.

The anti-American development in France and Italy could have been anticipated. In those countries, the Communist party is enormous. The recent Italian elections make any government unstable and Togliatti, the Communist leader, is again speaking his mind freely on issues, because what he says counts. In France, Thorez, having returned from Soviet Russia after a 29-month absence, has achieved the goal of political strikes. In France, into which we have poured billions of dollars, little of our money percolated to the people whose standard of living is steadily falling.

In Japan, the situation is now very bad and it would be correct to expect much deterioration. The defeat of the United States in Korea imperils Japan. Certainly, when American troops are withdrawn from Korea, Japan must come to some agreement with Communist China and Soviet Russia. Otherwise Japan will be in danger of starvation, if not of invasion.

The Japanese want to trade with Communist China because it is important for them to get their food from that country, particularly rice and soy beans. Should Indo-China and Thailand fall to the Communists, Japan will have no alternatives but to join them unless we accept the proposition that the United States will permanently make up Japanese deficits.

A report of this nature is not pessimism. It is precise reporting of developments which are taking place and which cannot be ignored. It is not enough that some top officials in Washington evaluate the situation accurately, if they do. The people of this country ought also to know the facts and realize that the foreign aid program has, from the American standpoint, proved to be a dud.

W. F. Sullivan Gets Celanese Award

William F. Sullivan, 29 McCullough Street, Frostburg, was honored this week at the Amcelle plant by R. Finley Thompson, plant manager, when he completed 25 years of service. John Brenneman, assistant superintendent of the Spinning Department, awarded him a 25-year emblem and certificate.

Sullivan has worked as a spinner during his entire employment, except for 38 months during World War II. On September 1, 1942, he enlisted in the Navy and at various times served on the aircraft carrier Bataan and in a PT boat squadron in the Pacific Sea Frontier. He was honorably discharged as a boatswain's mate second class on November 14, 1945.

Married and the father of a son and daughter, his favorite hobby is gardening.

He is a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church, the Holy Name Society of the parish, Council 1442, Knights of Columbus, and Division 2 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Celanese Directors Declare Dividend

Directors of the Celanese Corporation of America have declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable September 25, to holders of record September 4.

The board also voted quarterly dividends of $1.12½ on the preferred stock, series A, and $1.75 on the 7 per cent second preferred stock.

Both preferred stock dividends are payable October 1 to holders of record September 4.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower administration isn't putting up any wasteful, fancy, new government buildings for itself, but is doing a remarkable remodeling job on the bureaucracy inside them.

President Eisenhower was the first chief executive in history to get going on efficiency and economy before his inauguration. He set up a special committee to dig out the Hoover Commission's report on government reorganization which had gathered so much dust since the commission did its work for the Republican 80th Congress six years ago. The new Congress promptly extended the President's power.

In seven months Congress okayed 10 reorganization plans submitted by Mr. Eisenhower. They covered welfare, agriculture, defense mobilization, the Justice Department, the Export-Import Bank, the Defense Department, the foreign aid and information programs, the President's economic advisors and the air mail subsidy program. All these add up to better service by the government at less cost to the taxpayers.

But the best work is still to come. Neither the President nor the Congress has assumed that the whole job could be done in half a year. The 83rd Congress has another year of its terms; the President has three more. Accordingly, work has begun on long-term projects which will actually reverse the 20-year-old pattern of making the federal government bigger and more powerful.

A new Hoover Commission is in business. This time it will make recommendations even more important than those which just save money. It will study our laws and Constitution to find out how the government can be brought closer to the people so that once again they run it instead of it running them.

A Commission on Intergovernmental Relations has been set up to find out what the federal government is doing that the states can do better. Clarence Manion, a brilliant man who is former dean of Notre Dame Law School, is chairman of the commission and will really deliver the goods.

A Committee on Governmen Contracts, with Vice President Dick Mason as its chairman, is going to bear down on unfair and discriminatory employment by companies who are dealing with the government. This is a tremendous stride in the field of civil rights, since the federal government is buying a quarter of the goods produced in this country.

Probably it will take a little time for the significance of all this to be realized by the American people. The job they asked for in last year's election is being done so efficiently that I think we are going to ask ourselves one of these days why we didn't demand it years ago.

Three Divorced

Three divorces were granted Tuesday in Allegany County Circuit Court. Howard V. Dickerhoof was divorced from Inez M. Dickerhoof and she was awarded custody of their minor child. William Edward Baker was divorced from Betty Jane Baker and she was given custody of their minor child. Betty L. Shober was divorced from Oscar F. Shober and was awarded custody of their infant daughter.

Your street is part of your home

Your home investment does not stop at the property line. You pay for the street in front of your lot, too, so insist on a pavement you'll be proud of.

Concrete streets make the whole neighborhood more attractive and boost property values. They save on street lighting costs and are safer because they reflect more light and are uniformly skid-resistant, wet or dry.

When you consider their long service and low-maintenance cost, portland cement concrete streets are the best pavement investment your money can buy. Urge your city officials to build your street with concrete--the safe, durable, low-annual-cost pavement that dresses up the whole block.

Streets are the continuing responsibility of Cumberland's City government. It's your money that keeps them in service. So, insist on the pavement that not only is reasonable in first cost, but costs less to own year after year.

W. F. Sullivan Gets Celanese Award

William F. Sullivan, 29 McCullough Street, Frostburg, was honored this week at the Amcelle plant by R. Finley Thompson, plant manager, when he completed 25 years of service. John Brenneman, assistant superintendent of the Spinning Department, awarded him a 25-year emblem and certificate.

Sullivan has worked as a spinner during his entire employment, except for 38 months during World War II. On September 1, 1942, he enlisted in the Navy and at various times served on the aircraft carrier Bataan and in a PT boat squadron in the Pacific Sea Frontier. He was honorably discharged as a boatswain's mate second class on November 14, 1945.

Married and the father of a son and daughter, his favorite hobby is gardening.

He is a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church, the Holy Name Society of the parish, Council 1442, Knights of Columbus, and Division 2 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Celanese Directors Declare Dividend

Directors of the Celanese Corporation of America have declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable September 25, to holders of record September 4.

The board also voted quarterly dividends of $1.12½ on the preferred stock, series A, and $1.75 on the 7 per cent second preferred stock.

Both preferred stock dividends are payable October 1 to holders of record September 4.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower administration isn't putting up any wasteful, fancy, new government buildings for itself, but is doing a remarkable remodeling job on the bureaucracy inside them.

President Eisenhower was the first chief executive in history to get going on efficiency and economy before his inauguration. He set up a special committee to dig out the Hoover Commission's report on government reorganization which had gathered so much dust since the commission did its work for the Republican 80th Congress six years ago. The new Congress promptly extended the President's power.

In seven months Congress okayed 10 reorganization plans submitted by Mr. Eisenhower. They covered welfare, agriculture, defense mobilization, the Justice Department, the Export-Import Bank, the Defense Department, the foreign aid and information programs, the President's economic advisors and the air mail subsidy program. All these add up to better service by the government at less cost to the taxpayers.

But the best work is still to come. Neither the President nor the Congress has assumed that the whole job could be done in half a year. The 83rd Congress has another year of its terms; the President has three more. Accordingly, work has begun on long-term projects which will actually reverse the 20-year-old pattern of making the federal government bigger and more powerful.

A new Hoover Commission is in business. This time it will make recommendations even more important than those which just save money. It will study our laws and Constitution to find out how the government can be brought closer to the people so that once again they run it instead of it running them.

A Commission on Intergovernmental Relations has been set up to find out what the federal government is doing that the states can do better. Clarence Manion, a brilliant man who is former dean of Notre Dame Law School, is chairman of the commission and will really deliver the goods.

A Committee on Government Contracts, with Vice President Dick Mason as its chairman, is going to bear down on unfair and discriminatory employment by companies who are dealing with the government. This is a tremendous stride in the field of civil rights, since the federal government is buying a quarter of the goods produced in this country.

Probably it will take a little time for the significance of all this to be realized by the American people. The job they asked for in last year's election is being done so efficiently that I think we are going to ask ourselves one of these days why we didn't demand it years ago.

Your street is part of your home

Your home investment does not stop at the property line. You pay for the street in front of your lot, too, so insist on a pavement you'll be proud of.

Concrete streets make the whole neighborhood more attractive and boost property values. They save on street lighting costs and are safer because they reflect more light and are uniformly skid-resistant, wet or dry.

When you consider their long service and low-maintenance cost, portland cement concrete streets are the best pavement investment your money can buy. Urge your city officials to build your street with concrete--the safe, durable, low-annual-cost pavement that dresses up the whole block.

Streets are the continuing responsibility of Cumberland's City government. It's your money that keeps them in service. So, insist on the pavement that not only is reasonable in first cost, but costs less to own year after year.

Barbara Lee Wolf Becomes Bride Of Edgar W. Bustin

Miss Barbara Lee Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Wolf, Mt. Savage Road, became the bride of Edgar Welborn Bustin, E. M. F. N., Laurel, Miss., son of Grady Bustin, Sr., RD 2, Laurel, and the late Mrs. Bustin, August 23.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in St. Gabriel Catholic Church, Washington, with Rev. Corbin officiating. Mrs. James Helsel, Alexandria, Va., was her twin sister's matron of honor and only attendant, while Sandy McCain served as Mr. Bustin's best man.

The bride was attired in a white lace over taffeta, ballerina length dress, with which she wore a fingertip length veil held by a crown of seed pearls. Completing her costume, she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with three white orchids.

Her matron of honor wore a blue nylon net over taffeta, fashioned like the bride's. She had a matching Juliette cap and carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Wolf chose a black chiffon dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore black and white accessories and had a corsage of white rosebuds. The bridegroom's step mother was attired in a gray crepe and lace dress and had gray and pink accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Catholic Girls Central High School and Business School, class of 1950 and 1951. She is employed as a secretary in the Department of Agriculture, Washington.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Shady Grove High School, and attended Jones Junior College, Shady Grove. He entered the Navy in January 1950 and has been stationed aboard the USS Shadwell. He recently returned from Labrador and is in Norfolk, Va.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held in the Moose Home, Silver Spring. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations and repeated in the four tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Maidenhair fern and white baby mums encircled the cake and punch bowl.

For traveling the bride selected a blue dress with white accessories and her corsage of orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Bustin are residing in Chillum Manor, Washington.

Red War Heroes Strangely Absent From Gatherings

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Marshals Georgi K. Zhukov and Alexander M. Vasilevsky, Soviet war heroes who became deputy defense ministers after Stalin's death, have been strangely missing for the last month from important Moscow gatherings.

Their absence may have much to do with the power struggle in the Kremlin, and possibly even with preparations for a trial of former Interior Minister Lavrenty P. Beria, the secret police boss who was purged in July.

In the hectic days of the Beria purge, there was much speculation in the West about the future of Zhukov. He looked then like a rising power whose popularity and glittering prestige might boost him to a military dictatorship in the Soviet Union.

But now there seems to be a suggestion between the lines the Soviet press that the Communist party—always suspicious of the army—has been able to shove Zhukov and other strictly military men into the background, at least for the present, and to keep its possibly restless officers in check through domination by the Communist party generals and political administration.

Many generals and admirals were present at various parties given in Moscow in honor of the visiting East German Communist government delegation, Soviet newspapers reaching this country disclose.

Most prominent among these was Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, who, like Zhukov, once was Soviet commander in Germany. He is now chief of staff of the armed forces.

But Gen. Vasily Chuikov, the most recent Soviet military administration chief in East Germany, was not there. The civilian "high commissioner" installed just before the East German rebellion of June 17 was present.

There is reason to believe that Zhukov, Vasilevsky, Gen. Sergei Shtemenko (who was in Germany with Chuikov last February) and Chuikov were among the generals who were dissatisfied with the way things were going in East Germany, and had pointed out that it was the army which had to save the situation when the civilian Communist party administrators let the East Germans get out of hand. There is also reason to believe that the situation in East Germany offered a springboard for the purge of Beria. Many strong hints exist to connect the two events.

The racoon does not hibernate when winter comes. He retreats to his den where he slumbers intermittently until warm weather comes.

Bidault To Recommend Moroccan Reform Program To French Cabinet

PARIS, Aug. 26 (AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault told a Cabinet meeting today he expects to present a program of constitutional reforms for Morocco for Cabinet approval within three weeks, a government spokesman said.

"It is the desire of the French government to act very quickly in this matter," the spokesman said after the Cabinet met in the Elysee Palace with President Vincent Auriol presiding.

After the Cabinet has approved the proposed reforms, he explained, they will be presented to Moroccan authorities for study.

France last week deposed Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef as Sultan of Morocco and replaced him with Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa. Ben Youssef had been opposing government reforms proposed earlier by the French for their North Africa protectorate. He demanded independence immediately, rather than gradual reforms for the 8½ million population. He is now in exile on the Corsica.

In Cairo, Arab League sources said the Arab and Moslem world would oppose in every way what they called French aggression in Morocco and the dethronement and exile of the former Sultan.

The Indonesian ambassador to Egypt, R. H. Abdul Kadir, after consultations with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi, called a conference of the 16-nation Arab-Asian group. He said envoys of the group would meet in the Indonesian Embassy tomorrow to arrange the time and date for the conference.

Fawzi said United States opposition to the Moroccan question being brought before the U. N. Security Council will not lessen "our determination to raise the Moroccan case."

A French Foreign Office spokesman said the proposed reforms would provide for:

1. Decentralization of authority because the French believe one cause of continuous friction inside Morocco was imposition of rigid regulations on peoples of varied habits and customs under the former Sultan's regime. Regional councils would be established to recommend to the central government regulations more suitable to local conditions.

2. Creation of elected municipal councils and appointed local commerce, agriculture and regional councils to give the people a greater voice in government on the local level.

3. Separation of the judicial power from the administrative. Under the present system, the Sultan is supreme as both chief executive and judge.

Other reforms which would follow would include establishment of an electoral system so that members of both municipal councils and, when it is established, a national parliament could be elected directly by the people.

"Sugar Envoy" Heads For U. S.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Luis Rodriquez Acosta, Cuba's self-styled sugar ambassador, wound up his "sweet talking" European campaign today.

A little Havana cab driver, Acosta has whirled through eight European countries telling people to eat more Cuban sugar. He said he tried, but failed, to crack the iron curtain on a peace mission to Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

Acosta leaves London for Washington by plane tomorrow night. He plans to present President Eisenhower a five-pound bag of sugar, a box of Havana cigars and a cellophane-wrapped Cuban flag.

Acosta, 44, explains: "I represent nobody except the peace and sugar."

But he distinguished himself in London Monday by being the only man thrown out of the 50-nation U. N.-sponsored International Sugar conference.

Be-medaled and carrying sugar-crammed traveling bag labeled "Sugar Ambassador of Cuba" Agosta seated himself in the public gallery to watch the delegates below sign a provisional agreement. He started scattering the sugar on the delegates when Cuba's representative signed.

A few minutes later Acosta found himself outside on the sidewalk. But two sympathetic Americans gave him $25 and drove him to the U. S. Consulate, where he managed to get a visa for the United States.

Dope, Gambling Rated Top Crime Problems

DENVER, Aug. 26 (AP)—Three of the nation's best known district attorneys today ranked narcotics and gambling as the two top crime prevention problems in the United States.

Miles F. McDonald, Kings County, N. Y.; J. F. Noakley, Oakland, Calif., and Severn T. Darden, New Orleans, said the sale and use of drugs is "public enemy No. 1" They listed gambling right behind it because, they said it provides "the bankroll of the underworld."

The officers made the statements in an interview on their arrival in Denver for the Third Annual Conference of the National Association of County and Prosecuting Attorneys.

Jessie Griffith, Fair Organist, Has Varied Musical Talent

Miss Jessie Griffith is supposed simply to provide the incidental music for the five "Gaytime Frolics" acts being presented nightly in front of the Fairgo grandstand at the Cumberland Fair this week, but because of her good-natured manner she has won many friends among those who are helping with the fair.

Miss Griffith, who plays a Hammond organ on the stage erected on the track, begins the entertainment with a brief concert and then provides the background music for each of the five featured acts.

The organist, who is a native of York, Pa., says that she spends about 12 weeks each summer playing with fairs and rodeos. She can play seven different keyboard type musical instruments, and she also calls herself a "horse fiend."

That's why she likes rodeos for they give her an opportunity to ride horses. She recalled that she once led a parade in Charlotte, N. C., riding a champion five-gaited saddle horse.

Although she has been traveling with fairs for about 10 years, Miss Griffith took time out during World War II to lend her musical talents to the war effort. She joined the WAC's and was assigned to special service duty as an entertainer.

Miss Griffith and the other artists are "living" this week in trailers located in the infield surrounded by the Fairgo track. They form a little colony and remain pretty much to themselves, concentrating much of their efforts in helping each other perfect their acts.

These acts include the Inlernational Rollos, husband, wife and seven-year-old son; the LaFlote cyclists, George Lerch, juggler and wire walker; Princess Tall Chief, a full-blooded Indian acrobat, and Arabella, billed as a musical madcap.

The "Gaytime Follies" was first presented here Tuesday night and will have its last local showing Friday night. A fireworks display follows each show.

vote, and are at present without a contract with the company."

To Vote On Offer

Margaret C. Weiss, president of the operators' union, issued a statement saying:

"Telephone operators throughout the State of Maryland who are members of the Maryland Telephone Union have authorized their executive board by a vote of 2034 to 360 to strike if negotiations show no progress.

"Telephone operators throughout the state are faced with two severe problems. One problem is a state-wide difference in wages of $14.50 per week for equal work. Secondly their very jobs are being threatened by an accelerated program by the company to replace telephone operators with machines. This displacement of employes is not only detrimental to the employes but also to each community because of curtailing or entirely removing purchasing power of telephone employes from the communities in which they are now employed."

Last evening, Mrs. Weiss stated a meeting of telephone operators has been called for 8 p. m. Friday at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore, to act on the company's newest offer of $1 to $2 pay increase and other benefits. She said the union is not recommending acceptance of the offer. Operators will not stop work to vote, it was indicated.

The operators' contract expired a month ago, but a 30-day extension expired at midnight, August 25.

Effectiveness Spotty

A statement by John L. Monoghan, a CWA representative in Baltimore, helped keep the situation muddled when he said more workers might be called out in other parts of the state today.

At the same time Victor Crist, president of the Western Maryland local, confirmed Chatain's statement that the strike ended before midnight. Crist also said the one-day walkout was a "show of strength."

He acknowledged, however, that the demonstration had been nipped by the failure of 3,800 members of separate and independent unions for operators to observe the picket lines in most of the state. Only in Cumberland and nearby points did the operators refuse to cross the CWA picket system.

The strike came as bargainers for 4,300 clerical workers, installers, maintenance and repair men throughout the state were scheduled to resume protacted wage negotiations yesterday morning.

Mrs. Concetta Tambolleo, 80, wife of Nicola Tambolleo, 409 Prince George Street, died last night in Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted August 18.

Jessie Griffith, Fair Organist, Has Varied Musical Talent

Miss Jessie Griffith is supposed simply to provide the incidental music for the five "Gaytime Frolics" acts being presented nightly in front of the Fairgo grandstand at the Cumberland Fair this week, but because of her good-natured manner she has won many friends among those who are helping with the fair.

Miss Griffith, who plays a Hammond organ on the stage erected on the track, begins the entertainment with a brief concert and then provides the background music for each of the five featured acts.

The organist, who is a native of York, Pa., says that she spends about 12 weeks each summer playing with fairs and rodeos. She can play seven different keyboard type musical instruments, and she also calls herself a "horse fiend."

That's why she likes rodeos for they give her an opportunity to ride horses. She recalled that she once led a parade in Charlotte, N. C., riding a champion five-gaited saddle horse.

Although she has been traveling with fairs for about 10 years, Miss Griffith took time out during World War II to lend her musical talents to the war effort. She joined the WAC's and was assigned to special service duty as an entertainer.

Miss Griffith and the other artists are "living" this week in trailers located in the infield surrounded by the Fairgo track. They form a little colony and remain pretty much to themselves, concentrating much of their efforts in helping each other perfect their acts.

These acts include the Inierna-tional Rollos, husband, wife and seven-year-old son; the LaFlote cyclists, George Lerch, juggler and wire walker; Princess Tall Chief, a full-blooded Indian acrobat, and Arabella, billed as a musical madcap.

The "Gaytime Follies" was first presented here Tuesday night and will have its last local showing Friday night. A fireworks display follows each show.

Defeat Braves 7-6 To Capture Crown

Manager Tom Seifert's Tigers swept the series with the Braves yesterday, winning 7-6 at Penn Avenue, to capture the Dapper Dan Little League crown for the second time in four years.

Jimmy Kline was the winning pitcher, surviving a five-run outburst by the Braves in the third inning and a homerun sock by C. Robinson of the Braves in the sixth inning.

The Tigers came from behind to ice the game with a three-run rally in the bottom of the sixth when five straight singles plated three tallies.

Finals Set Monday

The third and deciding game of the best-of-three series between Andy's Liquor Store and Jimmy's Market in the High School Recreation Softball League will be played Monday at 6 p. m. at Community Park.

The two teams are tied at one victory apiece and the victor will meet Lathrum's in the playoff finals.

Elks And Eagles To Meet In 2nd Game Of Series

The B.P.O. Elks and the Fraternal Order of Eagles will battle it out in the second game of their best-of-three semi-final playoff series of the Rocking Chair Softball League today at 6:15 p. m. at Stitcher Field.

A victory for the Eagles, who finished in third place during the regular season, would move them into the finals with the winner of the Amvets-Moose series while a win for the Elks would extend the series to the limit of three games.

The Elks, first place finishers, will send Bill Underdonk, their 21-game winner, back at the Eagles in an effort to square the series. Allen Sheetz, who posted 15 wins for the F.O.E. during the regular campaign, and won the first game of the series on Tuesday by the score of 4-2, will be on the firing line for the tossers from Aerie No. 245.

Chicago Drubs Dodgers, 13-4, Hit 3 Homers

Jeffcoat Connects Twice For Winners

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26 (AP) — The Chicago Cubs handed the Brooklyn Dodgers one of their worst drubbings of the year today as they clubbed the league leaders for 15 hits including two homers by Hal Jeffcoat, for a 13-4 victory.

Jeffcoat clouted his third homer of the year in the second with the bases empty and connected for his fourth in the four-run fourth inning with two on. In a six run, eighth inning outburst, Bill Serena homered with one on and Randy Jackson tripled in two more runs.

Billy Loes, the Dodgers' starter, was knocked out of the box for the sixth straight time when the Cubs got to him for one run in the fourth and had men on first and second. Jeffcoat greeted reliever Bob Milliken with a homer into the left field stands.

The six run spree was made at the expense of Erv Palica, third Brooklyn hurler, in the eighth. Palica had come into the game in the fifth and had yielded only one run until the dikes broke.

Chisox Pilot Protests 10-8 Defeat By A's

Philley Awarded Disputed Triple

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics scored two runs in each of five consecutive innings today, then put down a ninth inning Chicago uprising to defeat the White Sox in a wild slugfest, 10 to 8.

Each team made 15 hits, Dave Philley leading the A's assault with a homer and two triples. One of the triples was a disputed affair that led Manager Paul Richards of the Sox to protest the game.

Prior to the disputed play young Mike Fornieles had retired the first 10 men to face him and had a 3-0 lead over Alex Kellner. Next he leaped for a sharp one-hopper off Philley's bat, the ball and glove sailing high and falling on the edge of the infield grass. The umpires awarded Philley three bases on the ground that Fornieles had thrown his glove at the ball. The Sox argued the force of the drive had knocked the glove off his hand. Apparently upset by the incident, Fornieles was quickly routed and the A's continued to pile up runs by pairs.

40 People Hurt At Hagerstown

Benches Collapse During Last Race

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 26 (AP)—Nearly 40 persons were hurt at Hagerstown Race Track today when four benches toppled over during the eighth race.

Twelve of the injured were taken to Washington County Memorial Hospital where they were still being held tonight for reading of x-rays. The others were treated at the track hospital by the track Physician, Dr. John A. Moran.

Track officials said spectators were standing and sitting on the movable benches on the concrete concourse fronting the clubhouse when some on the bench in the rear apparently became excited.

Action on the rear bench caused it to topple forward and spectators spilled over onto those in benches in front of them resulting in some of them being thrown to the ground.

"They went down like dominoes," one witness said.

Track guards, directed by Theodore Noss, a track official, pulled the injured out of the melee. Guards brought up ten stretchers to the stands to take the injured to the track hospital immediately. Ambulances were called to take those needing further observation or treatment to the Washington County Hospital.

Those taken to the hospital were Mrs. Catherine C. Romayne and Bernard and Veronica S. Keller, all of Washington; Vincent B. Parchman of Red Bank, N. J.; Joseph Fink of Baltimore; Mrs. Lois E. Yost, Altoona Pa.; Lewis E. Bishop of Baltimore; Mrs. Nellie Downing of Alexandria Va.; Charles H. Clark Jr., Thurmont; John W. Reep, Duncansville, Pa.; and Mrs. Ruby A. Bigelow, Hagerstown.

Big Jim Gaffney bested Jim Roby in a pitching duel for the fourth time this season as the Amvets turned back the Moose, 4-2, yesterday at Stitcher Field in the opening game of their semi-final playoff series in the Rocking Chair League.

The triumph marked the sixth time in seven meetings the Amvets have turned back the Moose.

The losers' only tallies came in the sixth frame when Wade was safe on an error and came home when Bud Young belted a four-bagger.

The first two Amvet scores resulted from Charles Porter's double, Harry Minnicks' three-base hit, and a long fly from the bat of Joe Geatz.

Times-News Tops Jaycees Nine, 8 To 5

Evens Hot Stove Playoffs At 1-1; Washington Stars

Manager Farmer Northcraft's Times-News tossers evened the Hot Stove League final playoffs at one win apiece with the Jaycees by turning back Manager Sherman Weatherholt's aggregation 8-5 last night at Penn Avenue field.

Bill Hanekamp pitched seven-hit ball and struck out nine as he bested Tommy Wegman in the second game of the best of three series. The Jaycees won 4-3 in 10 innings Monday.

Arthur Washington was the hitting star for the Newsies collecting four hits in as many trips to the plate, including two doubles and a homerun while his teammate, Paul Sheehe, had a single, double and three-bagger.

Bobbie Page paced the losing Jaycees cause with two bingles, both for extra bases, a double and triple.

The Jaycees took a brief 3-2 lead in the top of the third when Page doubled, Brown was hit by a pitch, Dunbar walked filling the bases. Parsons then squeezed Page home and Brown was safe on another squeeze when the Times-News catcher dropped the peg to the plate. Evans then walked forcing home the third tally.

A two-run spurt in the third put the Times-News nine ahead to stay when Joe Cioni walked and was tripled home by Ronnie Diehl. Bill Hanekamp's squeeze bunt scored Diehl.

The winners added single tallies in the fourth and sixth innings and two more in the fifth to offset a two-run rally by the Jaycees in the top of the sixth.

The third and final game of the series will be played Friday at Penn Avenue. The score:

County League Playoffs Set To Begin Monday, Aug. 31

Hercules, Central To Decide Second

The County Softball League playoffs will get underway Monday, August 31, President Earl Nonnenmann revealed last night, following the sudden death game Friday between Hercules Powder Kegs and Central Lunch for second place.

The top four teams in the circuit will meet in best of three series both in the semi-finals and finals, Nonnenmann said. Potomac Valley's Cubs are the pennant winners while Cunningham's Grocers finished fourth.

Friday's Central-Hercules clash will start at 6 p. m. at Corriganville to decide second and third place. Both teams ended their regular season tied behind the Cubs.

The initial playoff game Monday will pit either Potomac Valley against Hercules or Hercules vs. Cunningham's, pending the outcome of Friday's sudden death contest for second.

Nonnenman pointed out this is the first time in the 16-year history of the softball circuit a playoff is necessary to decide the final finish of the top four teams. In regular season play Central defeated the Powder Keks 14-8, 13-4, 3-2, and 5-4 while losing once, 7-5.

Potomac Valley, in clinching first place during the regular season, is the winner of the Frank Toler Memorial Trophy which goes to the pennant winner. This is the first year for the award in memory of the former ace hurler for the Hercules who was killed in an auto accident. The Cubs are also the only charter member of the circuit having played in the league since its beginning in 1937.

Hercules is defending champion, having captured both the pennant and playoffs last year.

The final game of the season will be played today when Potomac Valley meets Sports Shoppe at 6 o'clock on the Cubs' home diamond.

Kid Gavilan Defeats Jones

Cuban Champ Is Unanimous Victor

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan put on a dazzling exhibition of boxing and punching in the last five rounds tonight to easily outclass middleweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones in a ten round, non-title bout at Madison Square Garden. Gavilan weighed 154, Jones 152.

Held fairly even through the first five rounds when he elected to slug it out with the Yonkers, N. Y., Negro, the clever, 27-year-old Cuban switched to pure boxing tactics for a couple of rounds to the accompaniment of booes from the crowd of 5,063 (gross gate $16,620).

His pride wounded, the Kid opened up in the final three rounds with a spectacular punching and boxing show that swept him to victory.

The decision was unanimous and justified although some of the crowd jeered the verdict which went to the 13-5 favorite. Referee Al Berl scored it 5-4-1, Judge Arthur Susskind had it 6-4 and Judge Jack Gordon made it bigger, 7-3. The Associated Press scorecard favored the champion, 6-3-1.

Hank Bauer's Catch Saves Yankees, 5-4

Halts 9th Inning Rally By Detroit

DETROIT, Aug. 26 (AP)—Yankee ace Vic Raschi, making his first relief appearance of the season, pitched out of three late-inning jams today as the New Yorkers hung on to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

The victory—saved in the ninth inning by Hank Bauer's leaping, one-handed catch against the right field screen—pushed the Yankees 10½ games ahead of the second-place Chicago White Sox.

The Yankee veteran had to work out of trouble in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings—and it was Bauer's catch in the ninth which saved him. With the bases filled and one out, Matt Batts drove a high drive to right field. It looked as though it might fall into the stands, or at least bounce off the screen.

Bauer raced back, leaped, and the ball stuck in his glove as he crashed against the fence. One run scored—but the Yanks could have lost the game if he had dropped it. Raschi then retired Jerry Priddy on a fly ball for the final out.

Saved By Plane

BEAUFORT, S. C., (AP)—Jules Long and Roy Kearse feel they're in debt to an unknown pilot.

The sportsmen were surfcasting near here when a small plane flew overhead.

The pilot cut his engine and yelled that a shark was nearby, swimming toward them.

The fishermen didn't wait to see the shark. They hit the beach.

Although the plane landed on a nearby beach, they couldn't identify the flyer.

He has their heartfelt thanks, however.

Tigers Sweep D. D. Series

Defeat Braves 7-6 To Capture Crown

Manager Tom Seifert's Tigers swept the series with the Braves yesterday, winning 7-6 at Penn Avenue, to capture the Dapper Dan Little League crown for the second time in four years.

Jimmy Kline was the winning pitcher, surviving a five-run outburst by the Braves in the third inning and a homerun sock by C. Robinson of the Braves in the sixth inning.

The Tigers came from behind to ice the game with a three-run rally in the bottom of the sixth when five straight singles plated three tallies.

Finals Set Monday

The third and deciding game of the best-of-three series between Andy's Liquor Store and Jimmy's Market in the High School Recreation Softball League will be played Monday at 6 p. m. at Community Park.

The two teams are tied at one victory apiece and the victor will meet Lathrum's in the playoff finals.

Elks And Eagles To Meet In 2nd Game Of Series

The B.P.O. Elks and the Fraternal Order of Eagles will battle it out in the second game of their best-of-three semi-final playoff series of the Rocking Chair Softball League today at 6:15 p. m. at Stitcher Field.

The Elks, first place finishers, will send Bill Underdonk, their 21-game winner, back at the Eagles in an effort to square the series. Allen Sheetz, who posted 15 wins for the F.O.E. during the regular campaign, and won the first game of the series on Tuesday by the score of 4-2, will be on the firing line for the tossers from Aerie No. 245.

Chicago Drubs Dodgers, 13-4, Hit 3 Homers

Jeffcoat Connects Twice For Winners

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26 (AP) — The Chicago Cubs handed the Brooklyn Dodgers one of their worst drubbings of the year today as they clubbed the league leaders for 15 hits including two homers by Hal Jeffcoat, for a 13-4 victory.

Jeffcoat clouted his third homer of the year in the second with the bases empty and connected for his fourth in the four-run fourth inning with two on. In a six run, eighth inning outburst, Bill Serena homered with one on and Randy Jackson tripled in two more runs.

Billy Loes, the Dodgers' starter, was knocked out of the box for the sixth straight time when the Cubs got to him for one run in the fourth and had men on first and second. Jeffcoat greeted reliever Bob Milliken with a homer into the left field stands.

The six run spree was made at the expense of Erv Palica, third Brooklyn hurler, in the eighth. Palica had come into the game in the fifth and had yielded only one run until the dikes broke.

Chisox Pilot Protests 10-8 Defeat By A's

Philley Awarded Disputed Triple

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics scored two runs in each of five consecutive innings today, then put down a ninth inning Chicago uprising to defeat the White Sox in a wild slugfest, 10 to 8.

Each team made 15 hits, Dave Philley leading the A's assault with a homer and two triples. One of the triples was a disputed affair that led Manager Paul Richards of the Sox to protest the game.

Prior to the disputed play young Mike Fornieles had retired the first 10 men to face him and had a 3-0 lead over Alex Kellner. Next he leaped for a sharp one-hopper off Philley's bat, the ball and glove sailing high and falling on the edge of the infield grass. The umpires awarded Philley three bases on the ground that Fornieles had thrown his glove at the ball. The Sox argued the force of the drive had knocked the glove off his hand. Apparently upset by the incident, Fornieles was quickly routed and the A's continued to pile up runs by pairs.

40 People Hurt At Hagerstown

Benches Collapse During Last Race

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 26 (AP)—Nearly 40 persons were hurt at Hagerstown Race Track today when four benches toppled over during the eighth race.

Twelve of the injured were taken to Washington County Memorial Hospital where they were still being held tonight for reading of x-rays. The others were treated at the track hospital by the track Physician, Dr. John A. Moran.

Track officials said spectators were standing and sitting on the movable benches on the concrete concourse fronting the clubhouse when some on the bench in the rear apparently became excited.

Action on the rear bench caused it to topple forward and spectators spilled over onto those in benches in front of them resulting in some of them being thrown to the ground.

"They went down like dominoes," one witness said.

Track guards, directed by Theodore Noss, a track official, pulled the injured out of the melee. Guards brought up ten stretchers to the stands to take the injured to the track hospital immediately. Ambulances were called to take those needing further observation or treatment to the Washington County Hospital.

Those taken to the hospital were Mrs. Catherine C. Romayne and Bernard and Veronica S. Keller, all of Washington; Vincent B. Parchman of Red Bank, N. J.; Joseph Fink of Baltimore; Mrs. Lois E. Yost, Altoona Pa.; Lewis E. Bishop of Baltimore; Mrs. Nellie Downing of Alexandria Va.; Charles H. Clark Jr., Thurmont; John W. Reep, Duncansville, Pa.; and Mrs. Ruby A. Bigelow, Hagerstown.

The triumph marked the sixth time in seven meetings the Amvets have turned back the Moose.

The losers' only tallies came in the sixth frame when Wade was safe on an error and came home when Bud Young belted a four-bagger.

The first two Amvet scores resulted from Charles Porter's double, Harry Minnicks' three-base hit, and a long fly from the bat of Joe Geatz.

Manager Farmer Northcraft's Times-News tossers evened the Hot Stove League final playoffs at one win apiece with the Jaycees by turning back Manager Sherman Weatherholt's aggregation 8-5 last night at Penn Avenue field.

Bill Hanekamp pitched seven-hit ball and struck out nine as he bested Tommy Wegman in the second game of the best of three series. The Jaycees won 4-3 in 10 innings Monday.

Arthur Washington was the hitting star for the Newsies collecting four hits in as many trips to the plate, including two doubles and a homerun while his teammate, Paul Sheehe, had a single, double and three-bagger.

Bobbie Page paced the losing Jaycees cause with two bingles, both for extra bases, a double and triple.

The Jaycees took a brief 3-2 lead in the top of the third when Page doubled, Brown was hit by a pitch, Dunbar walked filling the bases. Parsons then squeezed Page home and Brown was safe on another squeeze when the Times-News catcher dropped the peg to the plate. Evans then walked forcing home the third tally.

A two-run spurt in the third put the Times-News nine ahead to stay when Joe Cioni walked and was tripled home by Ronnie Diehl. Bill Hanekamp's squeeze bunt scored Diehl.

County League Playoffs Set To Begin Monday, Aug. 31

Hercules, Central To Decide Second

The County Softball League playoffs will get underway Monday, August 31, President Earl Nonnenmann revealed last night, following the sudden death game Friday between Hercules Powder Kegs and Central Lunch for second place.

The top four teams in the circuit will meet in best of three series both in the semi-finals and finals, Nonnenmann said. Potomac Valley's Cubs are the pennant winners while Cunningham's Grocers finished fourth.

Friday's Central-Hercules clash will start at 6 p. m. at Corriganville to decide second and third place. Both teams ended their regular season tied behind the Cubs.

The initial playoff game Monday will pit either Potomac Valley against Hercules or Hercules vs. Cunningham's, pending the outcome of Friday's sudden death contest for second.

Nonnenman pointed out this is the first time in the 16-year history of the softball circuit a playoff is necessary to decide the final finish of the top four teams. In regular season play Central defeated the Powder Keks 14-8, 13-4, 3-2, and 5-4 while losing once, 7-5.

Potomac Valley, in clinching first place during the regular season, is the winner of the Frank Toler Memorial Trophy which goes to the pennant winner. This is the first year for the award in memory of the former ace hurler for the Hercules who was killed in an auto accident. The Cubs are also the only charter member of the circuit having played in the league since its beginning in 1937.

Hercules is defending champion, having captured both the pennant and playoffs last year.

The final game of the season will be played today when Potomac Valley meets Sports Shoppe at 6 o'clock on the Cubs' home diamond.

Kid Gavilan Defeats Jones

Cuban Champ Is Unanimous Victor

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan put on a dazzling exhibition of boxing and punching in the last five rounds tonight to easily outclass middleweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones in a ten round, non-title bout at Madison Square Garden. Gavilan weighed 154, Jones 152.

Held fairly even through the first five rounds when he elected to slug it out with the Yonkers, N. Y., Negro, the clever, 27-year-old Cuban switched to pure boxing tactics for a couple of rounds to the accompaniment of boos from the crowd of 5,063 (gross gate $16,620).

His pride wounded, the Kid opened up in the final three rounds with a spectacular punching and boxing show that swept him to victory.

The decision was unanimous and justified although some of the crowd jeered the verdict which went to the 13-5 favorite. Referee Al Berl scored it 5-4-1, Judge Arthur Susskind had it 6-4 and Judge Jack Gordon made it bigger, 7-3. The Associated Press scorecard favored the champion, 6-3-1.

Hank Bauer's Catch Saves Yankees, 5-4

Halts 9th Inning Rally By Detroit

DETROIT, Aug. 26 (AP)—Yankee ace Vic Raschi, making his first relief appearance of the season, pitched out of three late-inning jams today as the New Yorkers hung on to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

The victory—saved in the ninth inning by Hank Bauer's leaping, one-handed catch against the right field screen—pushed the Yankees 10½ games ahead of the second-place Chicago White Sox.

The Yankee veteran had to work out of trouble in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings—and it was Bauer's catch in the ninth which saved him. With the bases filled and one out, Matt Batts drove a high drive to right field. It looked as though it might fall into the stands, or at least bounce off the screen.

Bauer raced back, leaped, and the ball stuck in his glove as he crashed against the fence. One run scored—but the Yanks could have lost the game if he had dropped it. Raschi then retired Jerry Priddy on a fly ball for the final out.

Saved By Plane

BEAUFORT, S. C., (AP)—Jules Long and Roy Kearse feel they're in debt to an unknown pilot.

The sportsmen were surfcasting near here when a small plane flew overhead.

The pilot cut his engine and yelled that a shark was nearby, swimming toward them.

The fishermen didn't wait to see the shark. They hit the beach.

Although the plane landed on a nearby beach, they couldn't identify the flyer.

He has their heartfelt thanks, however.

Four Homers Help Hoskins Get Win

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26 (AP)—Four home runs, good for six tallies, backed up rookie Dave Hoskins' seven-hit pitching today as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Washington Nationals 9-5 for a split in the two-game series.

In the fourth inning, Harry Simpson and Jim Hegan each hit his 7th homer of the season off the starter and loser, Chuck Stobbs. In the fifth, Larry Doby registered a three-run homer off Gerry Lane, for No. 19 of the season. In the eighth, George Strickland notched a homer off Al Sima, his fifth of the year. Hoskins posted his sixth victory, although he had to have help from Art Houtteman for the last three outs.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (INS) — Nobody seems to know how the so-called one-platoon system will affect various football teams this season.

But a quick survey indicates that in the east, at least, the teams figure to rate just about as they would under the old rules.

A consensus of coaches places Pitt at the top of the heap in the east. Many of them place Pitt on a par with the best in the country, including Notre Dame.

Next in order come Navy, Princeton, Penn State, Penn, Villanova, Yale, Brown, Army, Columbia, Harvard, Syracuse, Colgate, Cornell, Dartmouth, Boston College, Holy Cross, Boston University, Fordham, Temple and Rutgers.

Some of these are about on a par in the advanced dope but the coaches admit that there probably will be more so-called upsets than ever this year.

All agree that the lucky coaches will be the ones who have several men they are absolutely sure can play a full game on offense and defense and turn in an equally good job either way.

Some coaches have at least one or more prospective All-America candidates. Indeed some of them start off with that type of player such as "Ike" Eisenhauer of Navy, Jesse Arnelle of Penn State and Eldred Kraemer of Pitt who is as bruising a tackle as can be found anywhere.

In looking over the pre-season selections we were struck at once by the high estate of Brown University, for years a push-over in the Ivy League and the comparatively low position given such powerhouses as Cornell and Holy Cross.

Brown, we are told, is loaded while Cornell and Holy Cross are supposed to be below par.

Lou Little, Columbia's splendid coach, probably will moan more than ever over the high position given his team in the rankings.

Lou undoubtedly will assure anyone who cares to listen that he has less material than ever this year but any coach would be glad to take a tackle like Johnny Casella or an end like Dale Hopp off Lou's hands.

All the coaches agree that there probably won't be an unbeaten major team in the east this fall.

The only team which appears to have a chance for an unbeaten season is Princeton which will confine its play to the east. Even so, Princeton may come a cropper at the hands of Navy.

Many of the others are sure to take a beating because they must go up against some of the powerhouses from other sections of the country.

Navy, for instance, must take on Notre Dame and Duke. Penn faces one of the most rugged schedules of any college. Penn must meet Vanderbilt, Penn State, California, Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame and Army on succeeding Saturdays.

Pitt also is almost sure to lose at least one, and probably more, while tackling Oklahoma, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Northwestern and Penn State.

Named Assistant

Worsham Takes Lead In Golf's Money Winnings

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP) — Lew Worsham, with one golf shot, has vaulted from 20th to first place this month on the PGA money-winning list.

Worsham's 140-yard sand wedge shot for an eagle 2 on the last hole of the last round gave him the $25,000 top prize in the "World Championship of Golf" tournament at Tam O'Shanter Aug. 9.

The money boosted the Oakmont, Pa. pro to a total of $32,007 for the season, the PGA announced.

Doug Ford has banked $21,986 to take over second place and Lloyd Mangrum, the erstwhile leader, dropped to third with $20,636. Cary Middlecoff is fourth with $18,246.

Mangrum still leads the Vardon trophy chase with an average of 70.22 strokes for 64 competitive rounds.

Durocher Fined $100 For Umpire Run-In

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the New York Giants, was fined $100 today for his run-in last night with Umpire William Jackowski in the sixth inning of the second game of a doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jackowski called Al Dark, Giant shortstop, out on a close play at first as the New Yorkers were in the midst of a young rally although still behind, 5-2. Durocher bounced from the dugout and ultimately was ejected. Dark also was ejected but was not fined.

Schools Urged To Take Part In State CD Air Raid Alert

Public schools are being asked to participate in "Operation Checkup," a statewide air raid alert sometime during the week of September 20.

During a recent meeting of Civil Defense leaders with William G. Barger, county director, it was suggested that drills be held in schools when the alert occurs. No date or time has been announced publicly for the test but Sherley Ewing, state Civil Defense director, said it will occur during school hours.

Thomas G. Pullan Jr., state superintendent of schools, has sent letters to all county superintendents asking cooperation.

Public To Take Cover

Principal purpose of the alert which will last approximately six minutes is to get the public to take cover and stop all traffic within cities and on the highways.

The public's part in this first statewide alert is simple. Civil Defense officials ask that when the warning comes, pedestrians seek shelter in stores if downtown or if at home to remain inside. Children should be called in from play and kept indoors until the all clear is sounded.

Motorists should pull to the curb or side of the highway, remain in the vehicle and turn off the car motor. Efforts will be made to inform transient traffic of the exercise being attempted.

To Point Out Weaknesses

While no services are required to make "runs" during this alert, Civil Defense officials hope that they will simulate an actual attack or full-scale alert. By preparing to be on call, the reports made by these services will enable Barger and his staff to determine time consumed and weaknesses in mobilization.

However, Civil Defense firemen are expected to make a trial run on a target area, the CAP will have planes in the air, and radio amateur operators—"hams"—may take part. Conelrad, the AM radio warning system for the public will not be in operation during this test.

The Conelrad system will have a statewide test September 16 between the hours of 1:30 a. m. and 4:30 a. m. The public is reminded by dialing 640 or 1240 on AM radios, full instructions will be available during an actual raid.

The public will be warned of the alert by the wailing of CD sirens for three minutes. The all clear is three separate blasts of the sirens for one minute each.

Airline Nets $72,109 Profit In Past Year

Allegheny Airlines had a net profit of $72,109 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1953, Leslie O. Barnes, president of the company, announced yesterday.

This profit represents earnings of 14 cents per share and is in marked contrast to last year when Allegheny reported a loss of $142,537.

There were no bonds, debentures or loans of any kind outstanding at the close of the fiscal year and the ratio of current assets to current liabilities was 2.2 to 1.

In the face of rising costs Allegheny succeeded in reducing operating costs during the past year. In addition to adequate working capital the company has invested $100,000 in short term government bonds.

In June the Civil Aeronautics Board recertificated the airline through 1956 and extended the company's routes to Cleveland, Ohio, Erie, Pennsylvania, and Huntington, West Virginia.

Allegheny's improved financial condition was achieved primarily during the second half of the fiscal year, January through June 1953. During the period traffic increased substantially and operating costs have been steadily lowered thus enabling the airline to operate on reduced mail pay requirements.

The upward trend of the last six months has continued through July and officials of Allegheny anticipate the most successful year in the company's history.

Resident Awarded Car At Area Fair

The car was presented to Robert L. Crawford, 48, of 449 Goethe Street, by Ira Lane, president of the Robertsdale (Pa.) Lions Club. A former resident of Everett, Pa., Crawford attends most fairs in neighboring Pennsylvania counties. He is employed at the Amcelle Plant of the Celanese Corporation.

Crawford hasn't owned a car since he sold one in 1943 to help pay for his home here. His wife is a patient in Sprinfield State Hospital, Sykesville, and Crawford will use the car, he claims, to take his three children to visit their mother.

The property at 716 Frederick Street occupied by Keiter's Market has been purchased by Marvin W. and Gladys V. Keiter from Giancinto and Julia M. Trombetta.

Second Man Jailed On Weapon Charge

A fine of $25 was levied yesterday in Police Court against Stanley Bonney, 8 Millman Place, who pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon. He went to jail for 25 days in default.

Tuesday another man, Raymond Gallagher, 27, of Goethe Street, drew a 25-day sentence on the same charge when he was unable to pay $25 fine.

Gallagher said he was holding a loaded .32 caliber pistol for Bonney, who at first denied ownership of the gun. Yesterday the latter said he found it at the city dump.

Police said Gallagher was arrested Monday night on the complaint of Bonney. Both defendants stated they had never met before.

The drillers have reached the Oriskany sands, which ordinarily contain gas deposits, and it is believed about 15 or 20 days will be required to reach a point where the gas may be found in abundance. The drill is down about 5,700 feet.

M. E. Anderson, president of the firm drilling on the McBride farm, said the operation can be classed as a "commercial well" at this point.

"Though a large field of gas has not yet been tapped, there is sufficient amount of the gas to warrant a statement that gas exists in commercial quantity," he pointed out.

When the "blow-in" took place many residents of the Augusta-Shanks area went to the farm to view the scene. A bluish colored vapor roared skyward with a weird, whistling sound.

A small tube of the gas seepage was lighted last week and some Hampshire County ham and eggs cooked with the fuel. The county, known for 200 years as an agriculture area, may become an industrial area if the gas field is large enough.

A number of properties have been leased by prospecting companies in this county and adjacent areas. The development on the McBride farm is the most tangible indication of a flow so far reported.

Prospecting companies have leased much property in Morgan County. Some say as much as 20,000 acres are under lease. It is understood these leases were renewed recently for another year. The leasing companies pay the property owner 25 cents per acre per year. This amount increases if drilling is done.

Donors Sought For Bloodmobile Garrett Co. Visit

OAKLAND—Red Cross workers are seeking 150 volunteer blood donors for the visit of the bloodmobile unit to Oakland next Wednesday.

This number is necessary to attain the quota set for this area, and to insure continuance of local participation in the national blood donor program, according to Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, chairman of the blood program in Garrett County.

The unit will set up at the Oakland fire hall from noon until 6 p. m., and those wishing to give blood may contact Mrs. Stemple. "Walk Ins" will also be welcomed, she said.

Mrs. Stemple called attention to the importance of blood collecting, even with cessation of hostilities in Korea. A tremendous amount of blood has been used in the production of Gamma globulin, that blood fraction which makes less severe the crippling effects of infantile paralysis, and Civil Defense officials require a stockpile of blood for possible emergency use.

This will be the last visit of the unit to Oakland in 1953, although a trip to another section of the county is planned later in the year.

RETURN FROM SOUTH AMERICA—Mrs. Howard O. Davies, who has returned to Frostburg after two years in South America, is shown with her two children, Eddie, 13, and Sandi, six-and-one-half. Mrs. Davies and the children have lived in Valencia, Venezuela, since November, 1951. Her husband has been a construction foreman at a Celanese plant there.

A well baby clinic, sponsored by the Frostburg Lions Club, will be held today from 10 to 11:45 a. m. in the health room of the City Hall. Examinations will be conducted by Dr. John Davis, assisted by Mrs. Rose Loible and Mrs. Lois Jackson, county health nurses.

Robert Jenkins, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins, Munhall, Pa., sang on a Pittsburgh television program Saturday. His mother is the former Miss Ursula Higgins, of here.

Frostburg Chapter 221, Women of the Moose, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock, with Rosalin Hochard presiding. Members have been asked to bring school supplies for a child at Mooseheart.

Visit In S. Carolina

WESTERNPORT — Charles Daniels, Westernport, and Luther Crites, Luke, motored to Charleston, S. C., to visit the latter's son, Edwin Crites, stationed at the Charleston Naval Base. Edwin will return with them to visit his parents.

Frostburg Woman Recalls Her South American Stay

Two years in South America have left an indelible impression on Mrs. Howard O. Davies and her two children, Eddie and Sandi, who have returned to their Frostburg home for an indefinite visit.

Mrs. Davies and the children have lived in Valencia, Venezuela, since November of 1951 where her husband has been construction foreman at "Celanese Venezolana," a Celanese Corporation of America plant which is located there.

The family flew to New York from Caracas and entrained to Frostburg when Davies was transferred recently to LaVictoria, about 75 miles from Valencia. There Davies will be in charge of construction of a weaving shed and dye house, Mrs. Davies said, for the Celanese Corporation.

Frostburg Natives

Davies and his family are natives of Frostburg. He had been employed at the Amcelle plant here prior to being transferred to Canada in October of 1949. Two years later, October 1951, he was again shifted this time to Venezuela and his family joined him there in November of the same year.

Mrs. Davies said Cliff Doolittle, former Cumberlander, is general manager of the Valencia plant; Noel Folsom, also from Cumberland, is plant manager; and Robert Orr of Lonaconing is production superintendent.

Noting the South American plant is very modern and up to date, Mrs. Davies said the Celanese Corporation also provides a teacher for elementary pupils of English speaking parents. She added the present instructor is Mrs. Lucy Gonzalez, a graduate of Hunter College, N. Y.

Valencia, according to Mrs. Davies, has a population of over 100,000 and like all Venezuela cities and communities has a central civic center. Valencia's civic plaza is "Plaza Bolivar," named in honor of Simon Bolivar, liberator of Spanish South America, she continued.

She pointed out no one walks through these South American plazas without wearing a coat and no one is permitted to carry packages of any type through them, she added. All are beautifully landscaped and adorned with a profusion of blooming flowers.

Little Train Travel

Most traffic in Valencia, Mrs. Davies observed, is by taxi, bus or American and English motor vehicles. Only one railroad passes through Valencia and the local passenger train makes but one trip daily each way between Caracas and Valencia. Mrs. Davies added the train consisted of an engine and two coaches which were very small. She smilingly noted the train made up in speed for its lack of size, traveling the more than 200 miles from Valencia to Caracas in less than four hours.

Commenting on the climate in South America, Mrs. Davies said there were but two seasons, wet and dry. The wet season was from April to October with heavy rainfall and wind storms marking the area throughout the six or seven months season.

All buildings, including residences of the better types, are constructed of brick and concrete but contain no heating units. They are unnecessary, she explained. Homes of the poorer type are constructed of mud.

Early To Bed Etc.

South American people arise at sunrise, Mrs. Davies said, take an afternoon siesta and then go to bed at sundown, hence there is little need for home illumination.

All water is boiled before using and many people have vegetable gardens of varieties similar to the United States. However much of the vegetables are of poor quality because of the lack of good soil.

Although she and her husband did not pick up the Spanish language too rapidly during their stay, Mrs. Davies said her two children could speak it fluently.

Mrs. Davies is the former Blanch Miller, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Miller of Frostburg.

Little Train Travel

Most traffic in Valencia, Mrs. Davies observed, is by taxi, bus or American and English motor vehicles. Only one railroad passes through Valencia and the local passenger train makes but one trip daily each way between Caracas and Valencia. Mrs. Davies added the train consisted of an engine and two coaches which were very small. She smilingly noted the train made up in speed for its lack of size, traveling the more than 200 miles from Valencia to Caracas in less than four hours.

Commenting on the climate in South America, Mrs. Davies said there were but two seasons, wet and dry. The wet season was from April to October with heavy rainfall and wind storms marking the area throughout the six or seven months season.

All buildings, including residences of the better types, are constructed of brick and concrete but contain no heating units. They are unnecessary, she explained. Homes of the poorer type are constructed of mud.

Early To Bed Etc.

South American people arise at sunrise, Mrs. Davies said, take an afternoon siesta and then go to bed at sundown, hence there is little need for home illumination.

All water is boiled before using and many people have vegetable gardens of varieties similar to the United States. However much of the vegetables are of poor quality because of the lack of good soil.

Canned goods and almost every other type of American-made goods are available in two large departments stores in Valencia, she continued.

Although she and her husband did not pick up the Spanish language too rapidly during their stay, Mrs. Davies said her two children could speak it fluently.

Mrs. Davies is the former Blanch Miller, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Miller of Frostburg.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mabel Smith, who died one year ago today, August 27, 1952.

Mother dear, it's been a year,
Since you have passed away.
In our hearts you will always be,
Although we know we will never see,
Your smiling face again.
We only know the Lord above,
Will hand to you Your reward and then,
You will find, that we, who were left behind,
Can never have our peace of mind,
Without you, Mother dear.

Sadly missed by her
Daughter, son-in-law & grandchildren

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness shown to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved father, Thomas Arlington Bootman. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.

Tops Them All!
We have in our garage a 1946 Chrysler Windsor 7-passenger 4 door sedan that is in such exceptional condition it is amazing! Honest folks, this car is practically new. It has only been driven 27,000 miles and looks like it has hardly been out of the garage. The brilliant dark blue finish is without a scratch and the chrome trim is perfect. The spotless interior is a dream in blue and chrome with seat covers that show very little wear. The car is equipped with radio and heater and the motor runs like a charm. This is an ideal car for a large family or for anyone who hauls riders to and from work. We've never seen anything like it for a car 7 years old and we'll bet you never have either. If you want to latch on to the bargain of a lifetime, you'd better hurry.

If you decide to tint your hair, ask an expert's advice or else be content with an "after rinse!"

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Time was when a touch of color to a woman's lips marked her as an adventuress. Now the absence of lipstick causes a raised eyebrow. Time was, and not very long ago, when "dyed" hair raised eyebrows generally. But now, girls everywhere and of all ages are rinsing color into their hair, washing it out at will and changing it along with their mood! Fun, they now say, is what a change in hair color can be and it definitely has no connection with turpitude. But it does have a lot to do with beauty.

Play around with "after-rinses" as you will. You can always wash them out. They are especially suitable for heightening the color of your own hair. If it is darkening with the years, they can aid in brightening and emphasizing its original hue. But do not depend upon them to conceal grey hair. That is not their strong point.

Combined Tint And Bleach

If you are a blonde with darkening hair, investigate the new preparations designed to color tone your hair along with lightening it. These contain both a mild bleach and a permanent tint. However, the effects you achieve will not wash out but must grow out.

Salt-and-pepper effects can best be obliterated through a so-called "permanent" tint. You choose the blending tone that you prefer to merge your greying and natural coloring into one all-over effect. The effect lasts until your hair grows out and retouching of the roots is a constant necessity. Unless you are willing to take on this responsibility, the path of wisdom lies in letting your hair take its own course color-wise.

A tremendous number of women today are tinting their hair at home. The secret of success lies in the meticulous following of directions. Read them carefully. Allow yourself all the time needed to carry through the operation. And whatever your choice, do not fail to give yourself a patch test by apply the color to a small area of skin to see whether you may be allergic to it. Failure to do so can result in discomfort.

A Change Of Mind

Should you decide that your tinting is not a success, the easiest route lies in retinting to a shade as close to your natural hair coloring as possible. This makes "growing out" easier and less conspicuous.

The surest route to successful hair tinting lies in placing yourself in the hands of an experienced salon. This is particularly true when your hair has been previously bleached or colored. In lieu of this type of service, discuss your color and product selection with a competent sales person at the cosmetic counter. In many cases, such advice has proved invaluable.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26 (INS)—You needn't expect Merle Oberon back in Hollywood for another four months. From Biarritz she writes that she has agreed to do a second picture for Spain's number one director, Saenz De Heredia.

"My second film," writes Merle, "is Anything Can Happen in Granada," so I shall spend three months in Granada and Madrid. I'll miss you all, but I'm crazy about Spain. I bought some property in Majorca and I intend to build a house on the Mediterranean.

"I know you'll ask, 'What happened to Dr. Rex Ross?' Well, he is attending a medical conference in London and he'll come to Biarritz before he returns home."

Pretty nice to have your house in Spain, a good job, and an attentive boy friend too.

Maybe the Kirk Douglas-Pier Angeli romance isn't stone cold, but it certainly got a first class chilling last week when Pier flew to Rome where Kirk is making "Ulysses" for Dino Di Laurentis.

No sooner had Pier landed than Kirk took off for Northern Italy—on location, it says here—and without inviting Pier to go along for the ride. Whereupon Pier did a little traveling herself, to Southern Italy to visit relatives, and then straight back to London.

Romance or no, it looks like Kirk won't be returning here for some time, since he's just agreed to do a second picture for Di Laurentis in Italy and France. It's "Attila," based on the life of Attila, the Hun, who was the scourge of Europe in 433.

Talked with Susan Hayward just before she took off for Honolulu. She said she is so emotionally upset she won't make any pictures until her nerves calm down.

Susan has decided not to file for divorce right away, because of the effect it might have on her children.

In other words, she believes it might have such a serious effect on Jess Barker that eventually it would harm their children.

This girl is intelligent, farseeing and wise. She says there is no chance of a reconciliation but she is not divorcing Jess immediately.

Ballerina Alicia Markova, who opens at the Greek Theatre in our town tomorrow night, hurries back to England to create the dances for Claire Bloom and Robert Donat in "The Tempest."

Another great ballet dancer, Bobby Helpmann, is co-directing with Michael Benthal.

I don't believe Shakespeare's "The Tempest" has ever been filmed. At least in going back and trying to remember, I cannot recall.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Judy Garland was so upset over the fire in her home that she canceled a recording session at Warners and is unable to work until later this week.

Reports from Europe say that Lana Turner has a new heartbeat and her interest in Les Barker is less and less ardent.

MGM is talking another deal with Desi Arnaz and Lucille Ball—that's how well "The Long Long Trailer" preview was received.

The Tyrone Powers baby is expected this coming weekend and Linda says she knows it's going to be a boy.

Pretty Frances Bergen starts "Miss Baker's Dozen" with Greer Garson this week. Frances was "orfully" pretty in "Titanic."

Katherine Dunham returns Friday to Ciro's for the third time in five months, which is really a record.

At the Sportsman's Lodge, Jane Wyman and Freddie Karger were dining with the Steve Trillings. Maybe Freddie is going to Warners.

Dore Schary's coming speech to MGM's 115 sales executives on Aug. 31 is said to contain some big, big news. But why, oh why is Dore's luncheon, to which I'm invited on Sept. 4, a Friday—my two column day!

Gene Autry's horse, Champion, stole the show in London. When Gene rode him into the Savoy Hotel grill, Champion stretched his neck and drank the champagne from one of the customer's glasses.

Orson Welles is not allowing his cramped financial situation to interfere with his gifts to Paola Mori, Italian actress. He just gave her a heart-shaped pendant of diamonds and rubies.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Stock Market Goes Lower For Third Straight Time

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — The stock market declined for the third straight time today when it proved unequal to the task of holding to early gains.

The stock market right now is at a critical juncture. It is pushing down near the lowest point of the year on average, and the railroads are showing signs of weakness. Railroads have in the past many times been the leader of a movement. With the railroads at a low for the year on average, many take the attitude that the path of least resistance for the market as a whole is downward.

Today's losses went to between 1 and 2 points with gains going to around a point. All major sections of the market were lower —railroads, steels, motors, oils, coppers, chemicals, aircrafts, and radio-televisions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 30 cents, double yesterday's loss. That makes the decline $2.30 this week. The average now stands at $105.30 —just $1.10 above the low for the year.

The industrial component of the average declined 40 cents, the railroads fell 20 cents to a new low for the year, and the utilities were off 10 cents.

The list was not specially broad with 1,080 individual issues traded as compared with 1,118 issues traded yesterday. Of these, 359 advanced and 431 declined with 3 new highs and 77 new lows for the year touched during the session.

Volume amounted to 1,060,000 shares, well down from yesterday's 1,470,000 shares which changed hands for the greater part during periods of market decline.

Daily Bridge Lesson

AN UNWISE FALSE-CARD

IT IS almost standard practice, in most situations, for a declarer to use the higher of two touching honors when he takes a trick, thereby hoping to conceal the fact that he has the lower one. There is one circumstance, however, in which the best players go counter to that procedure. It is when the leader to a trick had offered what is obviously the top of an honor sequence. The partner of that player knows the immediately higher one would have been used, if held. Hence the play of that card by declarer gives no information, whereas play of a higher one would do so.

	♠ A K 6 ♥ 6 2 ♦ K Q J 7 5 4 ♣ 7 4
♠ 7 ♥ A J 8 7 4 ♦ 9 3 ♣ Q J 9 5 2	N W E S	♠ J 10 8 4 3 ♥ Q 10 5 ♦ A 8 ♣ 10 8 3
	♠ Q 9 5 2 ♥ K 9 3 ♦ 10 6 2 ♣ A K 6

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	2 ♠
Pass	2 NT	3 ♣	3 ♦
Pass	3 NT

You would hardly think that the slight difference between playing the A or the K on West's opening lead of the club Q could determine whether or not that contract was made. But that proved to be the case at two tables of a duplicate game where West chose the club lead.

After taking the first trick, each declarer led the diamond 10 and, when East held up the A, followed with the 6 to the J and A. Then came the action by East which was influenced by South's first play. Where South had put on the A, East knew the K was also in declarer's hand, since West would have led it instead of the Q if he had held it. So East reckoned club leads hopeless. He therefore shifted to his heart Q, which trapped the K and gave the defenders five tricks in the suit. These, added to the one in diamonds, beat the contract two tricks.

Where South made the proper and natural play of the K on the club Q, East decided that his partner might have opened from a suit headed by the A-Q-J. He therefore followed his winning of the diamond A with a return of the club 10, which South of course won with the A. The rest of the diamonds and three top spades then gave him a total of ten tricks. At a few tables West led his heart 7 at the start. You can see that this doomed the contract to be set one trick. What would you have led?

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 6 5 ♥ A K Q 9 3 ♦ 10 6 3 2 ♣ 9 4

	♠ A K Q J 7 ♥ 8 5 4 ♦ K 4 ♣ K 5 3

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Spade, West 2-Clubs, North 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades, West an insufficient 2-Diamonds and North 3-Hearts, which East passes, what should South do?

Telephone CWA Strike Ends Here

Pickets Called Off Duty After Show Of Unity

Union Leader Says More Walkouts May Follow In State

Picket lines of striking telephone company employes were lifted just before midnight and telephone service in Western Maryland is expected to resume normal proportions this morning.

According to Marcel Chatain, vice president of Local 2105, Communications Workers of America (CIO), the picket line was lifted and work resumed to give negotiators a chance to proceed with contract talks. It was hoped these talks would continue in Baltimore this morning.

However, a Baltimore spokesman for the CWA said late last night that there is no plan to call off the union's tactics of staging unnanounced localized strikes in other areas.

"Just where we will hit next," he explained, "is up to a committee representing various locals which is empowered to order picketing of any Chesapeake and Potomac installation at any time."

The one-day strike was termed by union officials as authorized and a show of strength and determination on the part of the union, which accuses the company of "stalling tactics" during negotiations.

According to Chatain, one of the major issues is the differential of pay for the same work in various sections of the state.

Pay Differential

In Cumberland and this immediate area, the top wage rate for communications workers is $87.50 a week. In Baltimore and other parts of the state, the top rate for the same work is $97.50. These rates, he emphasized, are top rates attained after six and a half years service.

Local 2105 embraces Cumberland, Frederick, Westminster, Mt. Airy, Hagerstown, Oakland and Frostburg and has a potential membership of 365, according to Chatain. However, actual membership in the union is 245, he noted. The strike was so effective, he indicated, that only four people reported to work yesterday, and these were four non-members at Hagerstown. Otherwise, all the members and the remaining non-members observed the one-day walkout.

No Disorder Reported

At the Cumberland exchange, where two pickets remained on duty constantly throughout the day and until just before midnight, there was no disorder and little confusion.

Members of the telephone operators independent union, known as Maryland Telephone Union, Inc., generally observed the picket line and refused to cross it. Union officials and pickets said more than 100 operators failed to go to work and remained outside when informed of the CIO strike. Management placed the number at 114, but maintained emergency service which reached a near normal basis at times, with supervisory employes.

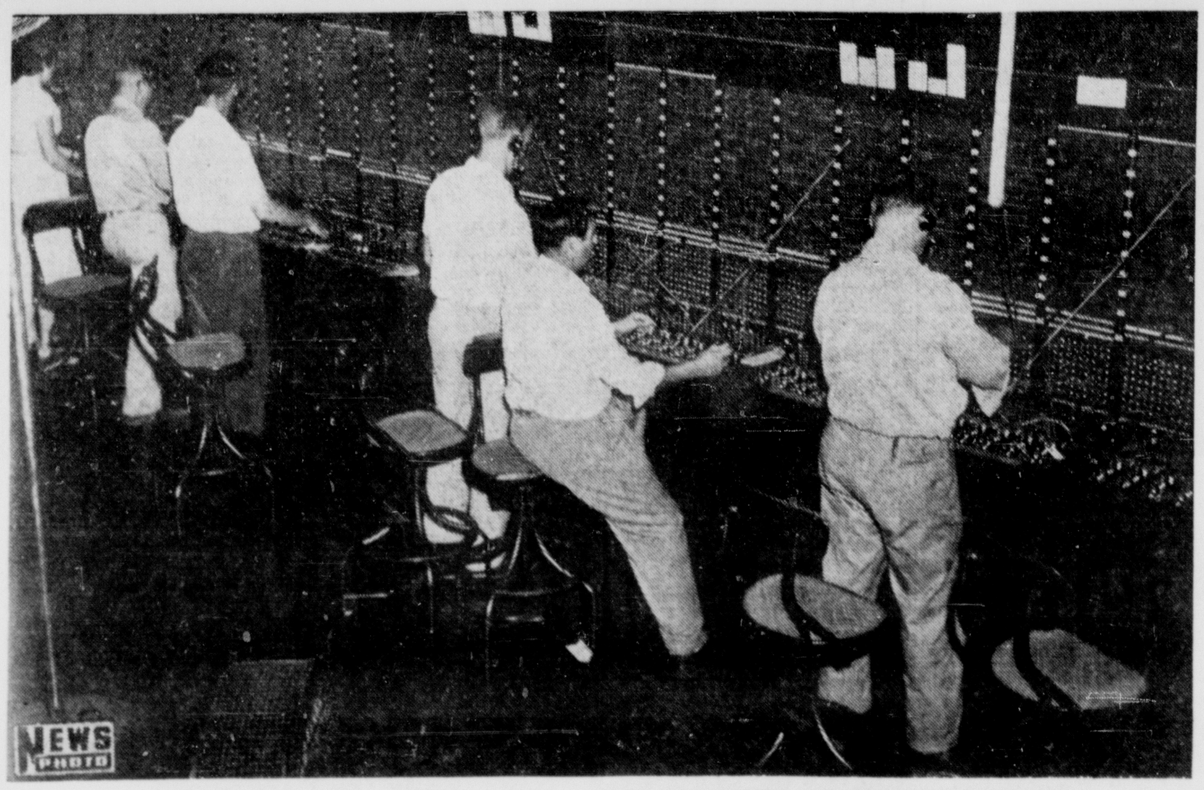

Says Operators Loyal

On the local scene, Chatain made this formal statement, "The inconvenience caused telephone company subscribers in the Cumberland area was forced by the company, after negotiations broke down and the company attitude changed.

"Our strike, as charged, is not a 'wild-cat' walkout, but is with the full knowledge and consent of local, state and international union officers, authorized by a referendum of the membership.

"It might be noted also, that the telephone operators, about half of whom are members of the independent Maryland Telephone Union, Inc., supported our strike almost 100 per cent, when they refused to cross our picket lines to go to work. The telephone operators have also been in long negotiations with the company for a new contract, but they were not on strike in this situation. Their action was one of union loyalty and a show of strength to CWA as well as the company," Chatain said. "Their action was legal inasmuch as they too have taken a strike

Communications Tie-Up

C&P Expects Service To Be Normal Today

Supervisors 'Sub' For Operators

Telephone service in the Cumberland area was almost back to normal last night at supervisory employes of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company filled in for operators who refused to cross picket lines of striking plant and line workers.

C. Walter Haschert Jr., manager of the local office, said he expected operations to be back to normal by today.

Haschert said a total of 221 employes in the Cumberland jurisdiction failed to report for work yesterday in what he called a "wild-cat strike."

Of these, said Haschert, 114 were operators. A spokesman for the Communications Workers of America (CIO) which represents repairmen, installers and other employes, said the operators had refused to cross the CWA picket lines. The operators belong to an independent union.

Three Departments Affected

This meant that practically no repairmen, installers, cable splicers, central office repairmen, clerical workers or operators were at work yesterday. A few employes, Haschert said, showed up and worked.

Supervisory personnel were rushed in from Hagerstown and Lonaconing to handle the daily flood of calls. At first, the company was able to handle only emergency calls, but as more supervisory workers showed up, they were able to handle all types of messages.

Haschert, who took over as manager here only Monday, himself filled in on a switchboard during the peak of the traffic.

Many of the substitute operators worked through the day and into the night as the company tried to get service back to normal, Haschert said.

"We've been checking all day with hospitals, police, large industrial firms and business concerns to make sure they're getting service," said Haschert.

"Although there have been some delays, we had no complaints that there had been any serious disruption of service since this morning."

Picket Lines Crossed

The local manager said there had been no indication by last night as to when the strike would end. He said no bargaining sessions were under way. The CWA later said it planned to call off its pickets at midnight.

Earlier, the company had issued a statement in Baltimore calling the stoppage a "wildcat strike" and broke off contract negotiations "until the walkout is discontinued."

The strike came suddenly as negotiators for 4,300 clerical workers, installers, maintenance and repair men represented by the CWA in Maryland prepared to go back to the bargaining table this morning.

Elsewhere in the state, the strike appeared not to have been as effective as it was here. Victor Crist of Hagerstown, president of the CWA in Western Maryland, said 3,800 members of the operators' independent Maryland Telephone Union had failed to honor the CWA picket lines in other parts of the state.

Four Activities Set By Potomac Council Scouts

Training, Archery, Rifle Meets Slated

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be busy the next two months preparing and participating in four special programs: a junior leaders training course, an Explorer leaders weekend, and an archery and rifle meet.

The Junior Leaders Training course is scheduled for September 12 and 13 beginning at 9 a. m. and continuing until 2 p. m. the next day.

Officials said each troop in the Council is invited to send junior leaders along with one adult leader to Camp Potomac where the course will be held. The adult leader is asked to attend so he will be familiar with what his junior leaders are taught. Troops will be permitted to send one junior leader for each six scouts in the troop.

Jr. Leaders Training

The training staff will be composed of junior leaders in the Council who recently attended a two-week course at Schiff Scout Reservation in New Jersey, and will present the training here under the supervision of John Dunkle Jr., Frostburg. Reservations for the meet are to be forwarded by Scoutmasters to the Council Office by September 8.

The next scheduled meeting next month is the second annual archery meet September 19 at the athletic field of Frostburg State Teachers College.

The school's archery coach will be "Officer of the Green" for the event beginning at 10 a. m. Officials said each troop may enter a three-man team, and camp records of archery are available at the Council office for units which may not know the best archers in their units. Troop 1, of Cumberland, is the defending team for the championship title.

Scouters pointed out that this year each troop entering the meet will provide its own arrows and bows. By having individual equipment, the meet can move more rapidly and a true champion can be determined.

Rifle Meet

On October 10, a rifle meet under the supervision of Merle Shumaker will be conducted at the range of the Frostburg Rifle and Pistol Club located at Hoffman Lane near Frostburg.

Each unit is expected to enter a five-man team to compete for top honors in marksmanship. Following the meet which begins at 1 p. m., Harry Morgan, Frostburg, will present a demonstration on firearm safety.

Also in October, an Explorers Leaders Weekend, a training experience for advisors and Explorer boy leaders, will be held at Camp Potomac beginning at 2 p. m., October 24 and running to 2 p. m., October 25. Fern Kenney, this city, will be in charge.

Boys Hospitalized Following Mishaps

Two area boys have been admitted to Memorial Hospital minus some precious teeth as the result of two separate accidents.

Theodore Jackson, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Jackson, 419 Broadway Street, was admitted at about 1 p. m. yesterday after he fell from a second-floor banister in his home.

Hospital attaches said he suffered a possible fractured jaw, lip lacerations and shattered teeth.

In another mishap, Larry Johnson, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Johnson, Wiley Ford, was admitted to the hospital at 8:55 p. m. Tuesday after falling from a bicycle he was riding.

Attaches said he suffered face lacerations and the loss of one front tooth. A local dentist was called yesterday morning to examine the boy's mouth. He had just recently completed growing his permanent teeth.

60 Per Cent Of County School Buses Pass Pre-School Test

Slightly more than 60 per cent of the buses and automobiles which will be used to transport boys and girls to Allegany County public schools this year passed their pre-school inspection without any flaws, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation and physical education in the county school system.

Inspected Monday and Tuesday were 92 buses and seven automobiles. Ramey said 56 of the buses and five of the cars were without defects.

Fourteen buses were found with defects in their steering mechanism, including king pins, bushings, tie rods or drag links. Thirteen buses had faulty lights, such as turning signals, clearance lights, warning and stop lights. Five buses were found to have defective exhaust systems, such as loose connections around the mufflers, and tail pipe burned through.

Other defects found among the buses were two with broken window glasses, one with a broken fire extinguisher, two with improperly working emergency rear doors and two with bolts holding front wheels missing. Of the two cars which failed to pass the test, one had a stop light out and the other had both a stop light out and a defective tail pipe.

Ramey, who directed the inspection, said that each contractor owning buses which failed to pass inspection will be sent notification and will be given 10 days to make the necessary repairs. Buses with major defects such as exhaust, emergency doors, and steering will be rechecked later.

David Davis, a Frostburg mechanic, inspected the buses and automobiles along with State Trooper Harry Bosley.

4 Hospitalized After 2-Car Headon Crash

LaVale Boy Hit By Automobile

Four West Virginians were injured yesterday at about 5:30 p. m. (EST) in a head-on collision on U. S. Route 220 about 10 miles south of Petersburg, W. Va.

The injured:

Charles Hamilton, 21, Deer Run, Pendleton County.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, 54, Deer Run, his mother.

Miss Norma Hamilton, 18, Deer Run, sister of Charles Hamilton.

Whetzel, who is home on leave from the Army, was returning alone from Harrisonburg, Va., and was headed north toward Petersburg. Hamilton, driving south toward Upper Tract, had his mother and sister as passengers.

Both cars were badly damaged in the crash and Whetzel was pinned in his automobile, although it did not overturn.

The four injured persons were driven the 80 miles to Memorial Hospital here in two ambulances of the Shaffer Funeral Home of Petersburg. The injured were given first aid enroute at the Veach-Townsend Clinic in Petersburg.

Whetzel reportedly suffered head injuries, Hamilton, internal injuries, Mrs. Hamilton and her daughter, lacerations of the shoulders, arms and legs.

Cpl. B. A. Adams of the Petersburg detachment of West Virginia State Police was investigating.

In another accident yesterday, a three-year-old LaVale boy was hospitalized after he was struck by a vehicle on U. S. Route 40 in front of his home.

The boy, Lorn Edward Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Phillips of LaVale Inn, was admitted to Memorial Hospital at 1 p. m. for observation and X-rays. He was reported in "good" condition with slight head injuries.

State Police Trooper Donald R. Wade investigated.

Cumberland Fair Today To Honor Garrett County

4-H Tractor Drivers Schedule Contest

Many residents of Maryland's western-most county are expected to visit the 36th annual Cumberland Fair today because it has been designated as Garrett County Day.

To highlight the occasion Miss Marie Edith Glotfelty, 16-year-old Accident girl, will be guest of honor at the "Gaytime Frolics" which will be presented in front of the Fairgo grandstand starting at 8 p. m. She is the Garrett County Farm Queen. Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh of Oakland will introduce Miss Glotfelty.

5,000 Attend Nightly

Another big crowd is anticipated tonight. So far this week the night-time attendance has averaged better than 5,000 persons. Yesterday afternoon, for the "Kiddies Day" matinee, some 1,500 children and probably 1,000 adults visited the fairgrounds.

For some 10 or more Allegany County 4-H Club boys the most important fair function today will be the annual 4-H Tractor Operators Contest. The contest consists of four parts. Assistant Garrett County Agent James McHenry will judge the contestants, who will operate their tractors on the track in front of the grandstand. Eight cash prizes, starting at $15 and ending at $5, will be awarded.

Yesterday 26 Future Farmers of America, representing chapters at Oldtown, Flintstone, Fort Hill and Beall, took part in the tenth annual FFA livestock judging contest.

First prize of $8 went to Herbert Shipe of Oldtown. Other chief winners were William Stallings, Fort Hill, $7 second prize; Argyle Wilson, Flintstone, $6 third prize; James Bible, Oldtown, $5 fourth prize, and Thomas Buser, Flintstone, $4 fifth prize.

Judge Three Classes

The boys judged a class of Hampshire ewes belonging to Jack Shober of Berlin, Pa.; a class of Doroc gilts belonging to George Lechlider of Laytonville, and a class of Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle, owned by C. A. Millar, RFD 2, Keyser, W. Va., and William G. Merrells, Burlington, W. Va. The official judge was Joseph Vial, head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Maryland. The contest was arranged by Kenneth Malone and James H. House, vocational agriculture teachers in Allegany County schools.

For the second successive year, Robert Moore of Mt. Savage won the 4-H Dairy Calf Fitting and Showing Contest. For demonstrating the best showmanship and having an animal best fitted for exhibition, Moore won the first prize, a $10 scholarship that can be used toward paying his expenses for State 4-H Club Week or the Tri-County 4-H Club Camp next year, according to Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Queen Is Honored

Miss Carolyn Deck, who was Miss Cumberland of 1953, receives a gift from State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher as she was introduced last night at the 36th annual Greater Cumberland Fair, in its third day at the Fair Grounds on U. S. Route 220 south of Cumberland.

Area Boy Accidentally Shot By Older Brother

Rifle Bullet Kills Gerald Crowe, 6

A six-year-old Mt. Savage boy was accidentally shot to death by his brother shortly before noon yesterday while the two boys were playing in the back yard of their home on Calla Hill.

Gerald David Crowe, son of Robert Ferman and Dorothy (Aldridge) Crowe, RFD 1, Mt. Savage, was pronounced dead on arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Dies Of Lung Wound

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was caused by pulmonary hemorrhage due to a .22 calibre rifle bullet in the right lung.

Authorities gave this version of the mishap:

Gerald and his 14-year-old brother, Robert Ferman Crowe Jr., were playing in the backyard of their home. Robert had tried to shoot a pigeon earlier yesterday morning and later had placed his .22 calibre rifle against the back of the house to help Gerald repair his wagon.

At about 11:40 a. m. the boys were called to lunch. Gerald was bending over his wagon while Robert went to get his rifle placed against the house.

As Robert picked up the weapon, the butt of the rifle struck the side of the house and "for some unexplainable reason" was discharged. The bullet entered Gerald's right shoulder and tore downward lodging in the right lung.

Taken To Hospital

Gerald staggered for about 16 feet into the kitchen of the home and fell to the floor. Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company's ambulance rushed the boy to Miners Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, investigated the accident.

Besides his parents and brother, Gerald is survived by his maternal grandparents, paternal grandfather and several aunts and uncles.

The body is at Hafer Funeral Home, Frostburg.

Colored Elks Plan "Frolic"

Fort Cumberland Lodge 176, IBPOE of W, will present a "Mid-Summer Frolic" Friday from 8 p. m. to midnight at the Elks Home, 153 North Mechanic Street.

John Wormack, exalted ruler of the local lodge, said the event will be highlighted by a quartet contest featuring Club 88 and the B&O Harmony Club.

Music and vocals will be provided by local talent, he added, and there will be free dancing and refreshments. The public is invited.

In charge of the event is the house committee assisted by Anna Washington, of Mt. City Temple 136, Daughter Elks.

Frostburg GOP Women Organize, Name Officers

Club Starts Year With 147 Members

The Women's Republican Club of Frostburg was organized last night at a meeting at the home of Farady Post 24, American Legion, with 147 paid-up charter members already on the rolls.

Miss Katherine Close was elected president for the first year. Mrs. Pauline Powell and Miss Marguerite Glotfelty were named first and second vice presidents. Mrs. Noel Speir Cook was elected corresponding secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Lemmert, recording secretary, and Mrs. Emily Jeffries, treasurer.

Mrs. George H. Barncord of Bowling Green, vice chairman of the Women's Republican Clubs of the Sixth Congressional District, presided at the meeting.

In outlining the purpose of the club, Mrs. Barncord said the group had organized to advance the interests of the Republican Party while at the same time providing practical political experience for the women who are its members.

The club gave tentative approval to a constitution and a set of by-laws, and named Miss Gertrude Williams chairman of a committee to study the rules and propose any changes.

Final adoption of the constitution and by-laws is expected before the executive board of the State Federation of Republican Women's Clubs holds its September meeting. The board will be asked to pass on the rules at that meeting.

Among the regulations is one providing that no person who holds an elective public office may be a member of the club. The club, however, invited all other Republican women in the Frostburg area to join.

Mrs. Noel Cook was named chairman of the ways and means committee, and Mrs. Robert Jones was named publicity chairman.

Meetings will be held on the first Wednesday of each month except June, July and August, on the third floor of the Legion Home. The September meeting, however, will be held September 16 at the Legion Home in the form of a covered dish supper. Arrangements will be made by a committee headed by Mrs. Aldyth Hager.

Theft Probe Continues

City Police last night reported no new developments on a Pittsburgh salesman's complaint that two men robbed him of $34 after stopping his car on Greene Street and holding him at gunpoint Monday night.

The salesman, Martin J. Kingsley, said one of the men forced him to drive around the city for more than an hour, with the gunman as passenger, after the theft took place.

Grass Blaze Quelled

East Side firemen extinguished a small grass fire in 400-block Central Avenue shortly after 4 p. m. yesterday. Firemen said there was no damage.

Seek Beer License

James Leo Meagher and Catherine Lillian Meagher yesterday filed an application with the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners for premises at Cresaptown.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mabel Smith, who died one year ago today, August 27, 1952.

Mother dear, it's been a year,
Since you have passed away.
In our hearts you will always be,
Although we know we will never see,
Your smiling face again.
We only know the Lord above,
Will hand to you—Your reward and then,
You will find, that we, who were left behind,
Can never have our peace of mind,
Without you, Mother dear.

Sadly missed by her
Daughter, son-in-law & grandchildren

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness shown to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved father, Thomas Arlington Bootman. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.

Tops Them All!
We have in our garage a 1946 Chrysler Windsor 7-passenger 4 door sedan that is in such exceptional condition it is amazing! Honest folks, this car is practically new. It has only been driven 27,000 miles and looks like it has hardly been out of the garage. The brilliant dark blue finish is without a scratch and the chrome trim is perfect. The spotless interior is a dream in blue and chrome with seat covers that show very little wear. The car is equipped with radio and heater and the motor runs like a charm. This is an ideal car for a large family or for anyone who hauls riders to and from work. We've never seen anything like it for a car 7 years old and we'll bet you never have either. If you want to latch on to the bargain of a lifetime, you'd better hurry.

Stock Market Goes Lower For Third Straight Time

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — The stock market declined for the third straight time today when it proved unequal to the task of holding to early gains.

The stock market right now is at a critical juncture. It is pushing down near the lowest point of the year on average, and the railroads are showing signs of weakness. Railroads have in the past many times been the leader of a movement. With the railroads at a low for the year on average, many take the attitude that the path of least resistance for the market as a whole is downward.

Today's losses went to between 1 and 2 points with gains going to around a point. All major sections of the market were lower —railroads, steels, motors, oils, coppers, chemicals, aircrafts, and radio-televisions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 30 cents, double yesterday's loss. That makes the decline $2.30 this week. The average now stands at $105.30 —just $1.10 above the low for the year.

The industrial component of the average declined 40 cents, the railroads fell 20 cents to a new low for the year, and the utilities were off 10 cents.

The list was not specially broad with 1,080 individual issues traded as compared with 1,118 issues traded yesterday. Of these, 359 advanced and 431 declined with 3 new highs and 77 new lows for the year touched during the session.

Volume amounted to 1,060,000 shares, well down from yesterday's 1,470,000 shares which changed hands for the greater part during periods of market decline.

Telephone CWA Strike Ends Here

Pickets Called Off Duty After Show Of Unity

Union Leader Says More Walkouts May Follow In State

Picket lines of striking telephone company employes were lifted just before midnight and telephone service in Western Maryland is expected to resume normal proportions this morning.

According to Marcel Chatain, vice president of Local 2105, Communications Workers of America (CIO), the picket line was lifted and work resumed to give negotiators a chance to proceed with contract talks. It was hoped these talks would continue in Baltimore this morning.

However, a Baltimore spokesman for the CWA said late last night that there is no plan to call off the union's tactics of staging unnanounced localized strikes in other areas.

"Just where we will hit next," he explained, "is up to a committee representing various locals which is empowered to order picketing of any Chesapeake and Potomac installation at any time."

The one-day strike was termed by union officials as authorized and a show of strength and determination on the part of the union, which accuses the company of "stalling tactics" during negotiations.

According to Chatain, one of the major issues is the differential of pay for the same work in various sections of the state.

Pay Differential

In Cumberland and this immediate area, the top wage rate for communications workers is $87.50 a week. In Baltimore and other parts of the state, the top rate for the same work is $97.50. These rates, he emphasized, are top rates attained after six and a half years service.

Local 2105 embraces Cumberland, Frederick, Westminster, Mt. Airy, Hagerstown, Oakland and Frostburg and has a potential membership of 365, according to Chatain. However, actual membership in the union is 245, he noted. The strike was so effective, he indicated, that only four people reported to work yesterday, and these were four non-members at Hagerstown. Otherwise, all the members and the remaining non-members observed the one-day walkout.

No Disorder Reported

At the Cumberland exchange, where two pickets remained on duty constantly throughout the day and until just before midnight, there was no disorder and little confusion.

Members of the telephone operators independent union, known as Maryland Telephone Union, Inc., generally observed the picket line and refused to cross it. Union officials and pickets said more than 100 operators failed to go to work and remained outside when informed of the CIO strike. Management placed the number at 114, but maintained emergency service which reached a near normal basis at times, with supervisory employes.

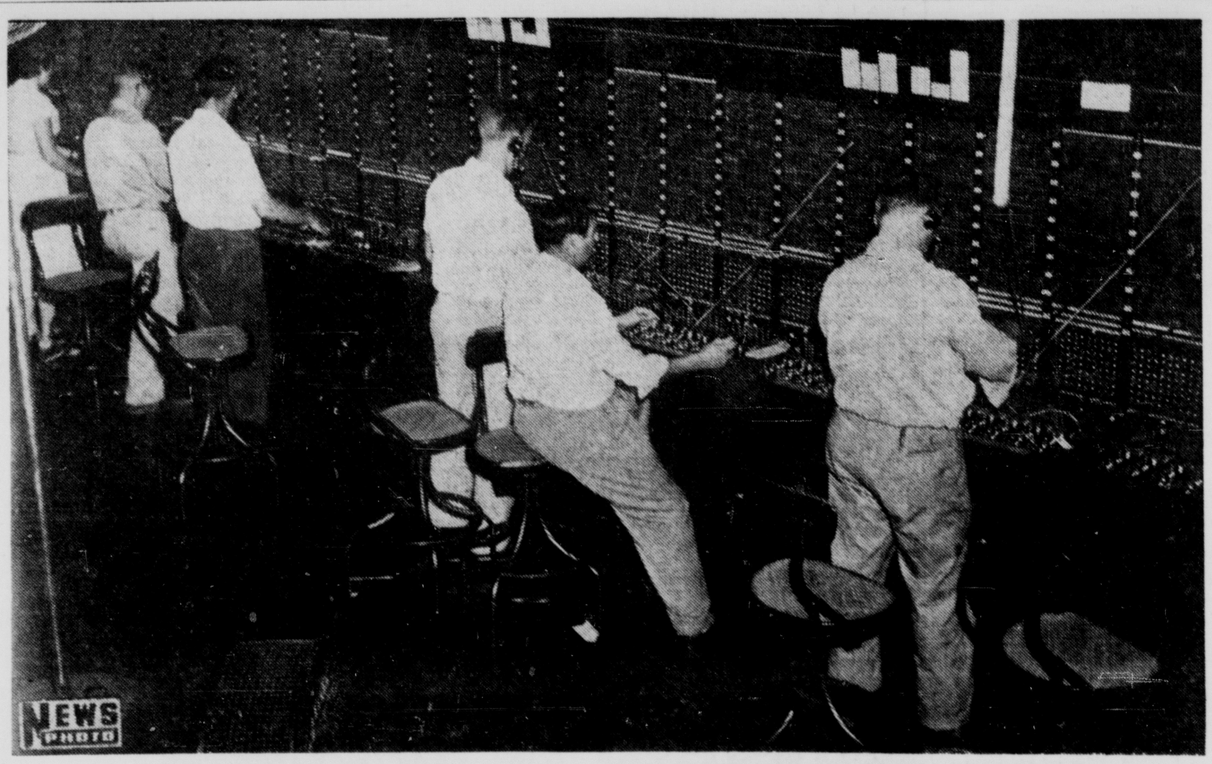

Says Operators Loyal

On the local scene, Chatain made this formal statement, "The inconvenience caused telephone company subscribers in the Cumberland area was forced by the company, after negotiations broke down and the company attitude changed.

"Our strike, as charged, is not a 'wild-cat' walkout, but is with the full knowledge and consent of local, state and international union officers, authorized by a referendum of the membership.

"It might be noted also, that the telephone operators, about half of whom are members of the independent Maryland Telephone Union, Inc., supported our strike almost 100 per cent, when they refused to cross our picket lines to go to work. The telephone operators have also been in long negotiations with the company for a new contract, but they were not on strike in this situation. Their action was one of union loyalty and a show of strength to CWA as well as the company," Chatain said. "Their action was legal inasmuch as they too have taken a strike

Communications Tie-Up

C&P Expects Service To Be Normal Today

Supervisors 'Sub' For Operators

Telephone service in the Cumberland area was almost back to normal last night at supervisory employes of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company filled in for operators who refused to cross picket lines of striking plant and line workers.

C. Walter Haschert Jr., manager of the local office, said he expected operations to be back to normal by today.

Haschert said a total of 221 employes in the Cumberland jurisdiction failed to report for work yesterday in what he called a "wild-cat strike."

Of these, said Haschert, 114 were operators. A spokesman for the Communications Workers of America (CIO) which represents repairmen, installers and other employes, said the operators had refused to cross the CWA picket lines. The operators belong to an independent union.

Three Departments Affected

Affected by the stoppage were employes in the commercial, traffic and plant departments.

This meant that practically no repairmen, installers, cable splicers, central office repairmen, clerical workers or operators were at work yesterday. A few employes, Haschert said, showed up and worked.

Supervisory personnel were rushed in from Hagerstown and Lonaconing to handle the daily flood of calls. At first, the company was able to handle only emergency calls, but as more supervisory workers showed up, they were able to handle all types of messages.

Haschert, who took over as manager here only Monday, himself filled in on a switchboard during the peak of the traffic.

Many of the substitute operators worked through the day and into the night as the company tried to get service back to normal, Haschert said.

"We've been checking all day with hospitals, police, large industrial firms and business concerns to make sure they're getting service," said Haschert.

"Although there have been some delays, we had no complaints that there had been any serious disruption of service since this morning."

Picket Lines Crossed

The local manager said there had been no indication by last night as to when the strike would end. He said no bargaining sessions were under way. The CWA later said it planned to call off its pickets at midnight.

Earlier, the company had issued a statement in Baltimore calling the stoppage a "wildcat strike" and broke off contract negotiations "until the walkout is discontinued."

The strike came suddenly as negotiators for 4,300 clerical workers, installers, maintenance and repair men represented by the CWA in Maryland prepared to go back to the bargaining table this morning.

Elsewhere in the state, the strike appeared not to have been as effective as it was here. Victor Crist of Hagerstown, president of the CWA in Western Maryland, said 3,800 members of the operators' independent Maryland Telephone Union had failed to honor the CWA picket lines in other parts of the state.

Four Activities Set By Potomac Council Scouts

Training, Archery, Rifle Meets Slated

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be busy the next two months preparing and participating in four special programs: a junior leaders training course, an Explorer leaders weekend, and an archery and rifle meet.

The Junior Leaders Training course is scheduled for September 12 and 13 beginning at 9 a. m. and continuing until 2 p. m. the next day.

Officials said each troop in the Council is invited to send junior leaders along with one adult leader to Camp Potomac where the course will be held. The adult leader is asked to attend so he will be familiar with what his junior leaders are taught. Troops will be permitted to send one junior leader for each six scouts in the troop.

Jr. Leaders Training

The training staff will be composed of junior leaders in the Council who recently attended a two-week course at Schiff Scout Reservation in New Jersey, and will present the training here under the supervision of John Dunkle Jr., Frostburg. Reservations for the meet are to be forwarded by Scoutmasters to the Council Office by September 8.

The next scheduled meeting next month is the second annual archery meet September 19 at the athletic field of Frostburg State Teachers College.

The school's archery coach will be "Officer of the Green" for the event beginning at 10 a. m. Officials said each troop may enter a three-man team, and camp records of archery are available at the Council office for units which may not know the best archers in their units. Troop 1, of Cumberland, is the defending team for the championship title.

Scouters pointed out that this year each troop entering the meet will provide its own arrows and bows. By having individual equipment, the meet can move more rapidly and a true champion can be determined.

Rifle Meet

On October 10, a rifle meet under the supervision of Merle Shumaker will be conducted at the range of the Frostburg Rifle and Pistol Club located at Hoffman Lane near Frostburg.

Each unit is expected to enter a five-man team to compete for top honors in marksmanship. Following the meet which begins at 1 p. m., Harry Morgan, Frostburg, will present a demonstration on fire-arm safety.

Also in October, an Explorers Leaders Weekend, a training experience for advisors and Explorer boy leaders, will be held at Camp Potomac beginning at 2 p. m., October 24 and running to 2 p. m., October 25. Fern Kenney, this city, will be in charge.

60 Per Cent Of County School Buses Pass Pre-School Test

Slightly more than 60 per cent of the buses and automobiles which will be used to transport boys and girls to Allegany County public schools this year passed their pre-school inspection without any flaws, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation and physical education in the county school system.

Inspected Monday and Tuesday were 92 buses and seven automobiles. Ramey said 56 of the buses and five of the cars were without defects.

Fourteen buses were found with defects in their steering mechanism, including king pins, bushings, tie rods or drag links. Thirteen buses had faulty lights, such as turning signals, clearance lights, warning and stop lights. Five buses were found to have defective exhaust systems, such as loose connections around the mufflers, and tail pipe burned through.

Other defects found among the buses were two with broken window glasses, one with a broken fire extinguisher, two with improperly working emergency rear doors and two with bolts holding front wheels missing. Of the two cars which failed to pass the test, one had a stop light out and the other had both a stop light out and a defective tail pipe.

Ramey, who directed the inspection, said that each contractor owning buses which failed to pass inspection will be sent notification and will be given 10 days to make the necessary repairs. Buses with major defects such as exhaust, emergency doors, and steering will be rechecked later.

David Davis, a Frostburg mechanic, inspected the buses and automobiles along with State Trooper Harry Bosley.

Cumberland Fair Today To Honor Garrett County

4-H Tractor Drivers Schedule Contest

Many residents of Maryland's western-most county are expected to visit the 36th annual Cumberland Fair today because it has been designated as Garrett County Day.

To highlight the occasion Miss Marie Edith Glotfelty, 16-year-old Accident girl, will be guest of honor at the "Gaytime Frolics" which will be presented in front of the Fairgo grandstand starting at 8 p. m. She is the Garrett County Farm Queen. Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh of Oakland will introduce Miss Glotfelty.

5,000 Attend Nightly

Another big crowd is anticipated tonight. So far this week the night-time attendance has averaged better than 5,000 persons. Yesterday afternoon, for the "Kiddies Day" matinee, some 1,500 children and probably 1,000 adults visited the fairgrounds.

For some 10 or more Allegany County 4-H Club boys the most important fair function today will be the annual 4-H Tractor Operators Contest. The contest consists of four parts. Assistant Garrett County Agent James McHenry will judge the contestants, who will operate their tractors on the track in front of the grandstand. Eight cash prizes, starting at $15 and ending at $5, will be awarded.

Yesterday 26 Future Farmers of America, representing chapters at Oldtown, Flintstone, Fort Hill and Beall, took part in the tenth annual FFA livestock judging contest.

First prize of $8 went to Herbert Shipe of Oldtown. Other chief winners were William Stallings, Fort Hill, $7 second prize; Argyle Wilson, Flintstone, $6 third prize; James Bible, Oldtown, $5 fourth prize, and Thomas Buser, Flintstone, $4 fifth prize.

Judge Three Classes

The boys judged a class of Hampshire ewes belonging to Jack Shober of Berlin, Pa.; a class of Doroc gilts belonging to George Lechlider of Laytonville, and a class of Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle, owned by C. A. Millar, RFD 2, Keyser, W. Va., and William G. Merrells, Burlington, W. Va. The official judge was Joseph Vial, head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Maryland. The contest was arranged by Kenneth Malone and James H. House, vocational agriculture teachers in Allegany County schools.

For the second successive year, Robert Moore of Mt. Savage won the 4-H Dairy Calf Fitting and Showing Contest. For demonstrating the best showmanship and having an animal best fitted for exhibition, Moore won the first prize, a $10 scholarship that can be used toward paying his expenses for State 4-H Club Week or the Tri-County 4-H Club Camp next year, according to Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Area Boy Accidentally Shot By Older Brother

Rifle Bullet Kills Gerald Crowe, 6

A six-year-old Mt. Savage boy was accidentally shot to death by his brother shortly before noon yesterday while the two boys were playing in the back yard of their home on Calla Hill.

Gerald David Crowe, son of Robert Ferman and Dorothy (Aldridge) Crowe, RFD 1, Mt. Savage, was pronounced dead on arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Dies Of Lung Wound

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was caused by pulmonary hemorrhage due to a .22 calibre rifle bullet in the right lung.

Authorities gave this version of the mishap:

Gerald and his 14-year-old brother, Robert Ferman Crowe Jr., were playing in the backyard of their home. Robert had tried to shoot a pigeon earlier yesterday morning and later had placed his .22 calibre rifle against the back of the house to help Gerald repair his wagon.

At about 11:40 a. m. the boys were called to lunch. Gerald was bending over his wagon while Robert went to get his rifle placed against the house.

As Robert picked up the weapon, the butt of the rifle struck the side of the house and "for some unexplainable reason" was discharged. The bullet entered Gerald's right shoulder and tore downward lodging in the right lung.

Taken To Hospital

Gerald staggered for about 16 feet into the kitchen of the home and fell to the floor. Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company's ambulance rushed the boy to Miners Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, investigated the accident.

Besides his parents and brother, Gerald is survived by his maternal grandparents, paternal grandfather and several aunts and uncles.

The body is at Hafer Funeral Home, Frostburg.

Mrs. Noel Cook was named chairman of the ways and means committee, and Mrs. Robert Jones was named publicity chairman.

Meetings will be held on the first Wednesday of each month except June, July and August, on the third floor of the Legion Home. The September meeting, however, will be held September 16 at the Legion Home in the form of a covered dish supper. Arrangements will be made by a committee headed by Mrs. Aldyth Hager.
